CALENDAR DESCRIPTION

Students learn to identify soils and perform standard methods of measurement of soil properties. Applications such as geosynthetics, filter designs, seepage analysis and methods for dealing with geologic hazards and problem soils are presented. Soil properties and surface loading are used to calculate sub-surface soil stresses. The theory and application of soils consolidation is introduced.

PREREQUISITE(S): C in CIVE 192

CO-REQUISITE(S): CIVE 271

EXCLUSION(S): None

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES / OBJECTIVES

- Apply relevant safety regulations and best practices in the lab and in the field.
- Identify types and origins of rocks and soils, common geological hazards, and describe the common methods of subsurface explorations, sampling, field testing, geotechnical instrumentation, and borehole logging.
- Classify soils using the Unified Soil Classification system.
- Evaluate and perform calculations on soils' three-phase mass-volume relationships.
- Conduct the following laboratory tests and analyze the test results: moisture content; grain size analysis; specific gravity; Atterberg limits; permeability; standard and modified proctor tests; nuclear densometer test.
- Describe drainage filter designs and applications of geosynthetics and other common erosion control methods.
- Calculate sub-surface soil stress, effective stress and stress increases due to loadings in soils.
- Perform simple calculations involving permeability, seepage and water pressure in soils.
- Relate vertical earth pressures to lateral earth pressures - lateral earth pressure coefficients.
- Complete site inspection reports for such inspections as: subgrade conditions, compaction, slopes, pile installations and identify site hazards.
- Describe methods used for dealing with problem soils.
- Describe the concept of soils primary consolidation.
- Describe the test data reduction method of soils one-dimensional consolidation test.

REQUIRED MATERIALS & RECOMMENDED PREPARATION / INFORMATION

EVALUATION OF LEARNING

Component	Option 1	Option 2	Comment
Quizzes	23%	50%	Written, open book
Labs	22%	45%
Instructor's Assessment	5%	5%	Based on your cooperation and attendance
Final Examination	50%	/	Written, open book
TOTAL	100%

50% of the final examination for Option 1, or 50% average of all tests/examinations for Option 2, must be attained in order to pass this course. You will be asked to choose Option 1 or Option 2 in Week 14. If you miss Quiz 4 or miss any two or more quizzes from Quiz 1 to Quiz 3, you will only be evaluated by Option 1. Mark deduction for late submission of any lab report is 10% of that report. If it is handed in after the lab reports of the other students are returned to class, no mark will be given. But all the required reports must be submitted to the instructor's satisfaction prior to the final examination in order to pass this course. If a lab session is missed without a solid reason, zero mark will be assigned for that lab session. If your report is required to redo, you have one week to complete your work and rehand in from the day of your receiving the notice, and your maximum mark for that report will be the minimum mark of the class minus 10%.

If you have a concern about a grade you have received for an evaluation, please come and see me as soon as possible. Refer to the Grade Review and Appeals policy for more information.

COURSE GUIDELINES & EXPECTATIONS

Attendance

Students are expected to attend all lectures and labs on time. It is your responsibility to catch up with the others of your class if you missed some classes. The 5% of Instructor's Assessment will be partly based on your attendance.

Due dates and Late Submissions

The due dates of your lab reports are to be given during classes. The purpose of the due dates is to help both you and I to get the work done so that we can have a relatively quick feedback and also your work can be assessed in a timely manner. Late submissions of any project or assignment will be subject to mark deductions.

Quizzes and Final Examination

All Quizzes and Final Examination must be written at the scheduled times with the exception of students requiring an accommodation by CAL. It is understood that emergency circumstances do occur (e.g. severe illness or family emergency); for such circumstances, accommodation may be offered at the discretion of the instructor, provided the student:

- a) notifies the instructor in advance of the exam (not after), and
- b) provides documented evidence of the circumstance (e.g. medical certificate).
