COURSE GUIDELINES & EXPECTATIONS

Participation & Classroom Etiquette

- Please refrain from using a laptop, conferring with your phone or texting in class, talking out of turn, using recording devices, being late, leaving class early.
- Students using class time for work on other course assignments will be asked to leave.
- Please note there is a participation mark allotted – students are presumed to engage class discussions and bring all course materials necessary to class. This presumes your attendance clearly. Your participation grade will be adversely affected if you do not actively involve yourself in the course activities.
- I also expect you to respect the values of others. You are not required to agree with every idea I or anyone else in class proposes, but you are required to consider them.

Assignments & Academic Honesty

- Assignments are due on the dates/times specified – and at the beginning of class for the specified date. Note that problems with online access, software and computer issues, or workload issues with other courses will not be accepted as reasons for late submissions.
- Late submissions: 10% is docked for each day an assignment is late. Assignments more than a week late will not be accepted and will receive an F grade.
- Class absences/assignment extensions will only be granted without penalty given certain extenuating circumstances (for example, college related activities, religious holidays, etc.). These must be declared in advance of the absence/request for extension.
- Note that if you miss a class, you are solely responsible for catching up with missed material. I don't respond to "what did I miss?" queries, so please make arrangements with a classmate to get notes and updates on course content.

- While I make every effort to check email regularly, I would appreciate at least 24-48 hours to respond to emails. In other words, don't presume that I can respond to your questions or concerns if you only contact me the day before a given class. I do not respond to emails on weekends/after 5pm on weekdays. You are advised to begin work on assignments early so you can clarify any issues well in advance of the due date.
- You must complete all assignments to earn a "C" or higher in this course.
- In cases of academic misconduct students will receive an F on the assignment and may also be subject to additional college sanctions. Students will respect the standards of academic integrity, including but not limited to, refraining from plagiarism, cheating, or copying or relying on someone else's work. Note the college policy below (Academic Integrity). Also, note the library has some more information that you should be familiar with: <https://camosun.libguides.com/academicintegrity>
- All assignments are to be submitted in 12-point, Times New Roman. Submissions must follow the format of MLA style (see library for more info: <https://camosun.libguides.com/MLA8>)
