How do I start the course?

Students will be held responsible for being familiar with the policies outlined here. Please read through these notes carefully.

PLEASE POST YOUR INTRODUCTION BY 11:30PM, SEPTEMBER 9th (students that do not do so will be dropped to accommodate wait-listed students). Post under My Tools>Discussions.

Course Overview & Structure

The course is structured around the following text (the text is a free open access digital text).

<https://ecampusontario.pressbooks.pub/profcommsontario/>

Note that assignments are always due by Friday 11:30PM of the week in question.

Assignments are uploaded under My Tools> Assignments.

You will find a description of what each assignment requires there as well.

I have focused this course around the text in organized in sequential modules that you will be required to follow closely. Note the weekly schedule we follow and in particular, note the due dates for assignments.

Though this course is online, it is not self paced. I presume you are logging in each week to check for course announcements, changes to due dates, course content modifications, etc. I will post notes under the NEWS tab. Sometimes this tab needs to be expanded if you don't see anything (click on the tab). Students can certainly schedule to work through the weekly calendar postings as they wish otherwise – this course is asynchronous so no formal time is required for students to be present online. However, note that this course requires considerable discipline and commitment on your part – perhaps even MORE so than in-class courses. You need to regulate your weekly commitment and keep pace with the class schedule.

As an advanced writing course, this course presumes some competence in post-secondary level standards of composition, revision, editing, research, and documentation. This is NOT a formal grammar course.

Grading

Please upload assignments as .pdf documents.

Assignments not in .pdf format will be docked 10%. Assignments are due on the dates/times specified. No late assignments are accepted save for verifiable medical reasons. Note that problems with online access, software, etc., will NOT be accepted as reasons for extensions. Note the assignment deadlines.

Note too that the deadline is 11:30PM of the day an assignment is due. All time references to time in the course are to Pacific Daylight Time (PDT). If you are in another time zone, you are responsible for submitting your assignments by the time specified in PDT.

All assignments are to be submitted in 12-point, Times New Roman. Submissions must follow MLA style or APA style.

There are no make up assignments or options to redo required submissions.

Comments on submitted work can be found the comment box of submitted assignments. To see your feedback, go to My Tools>Assignments (where you uploaded your work). The assignment descriptions provide the grading criteria that is used for each of the required submissions.

Writing Rubric for Grades

Again, as noted above, we presume correctness and fluency in your writing. Those students needing sentence level facilitation with issue of writing should confer with additional resources. For a quick overview of some common sentence issues you should not be making – review these:

<https://undergrad.stanford.edu/tutoring-support/hume-center/resources/student-resources/grammar-resources-writers/top-twenty-errors-undergraduate-writing>

As to grading, note that merely fulfilling the basic requirements for an assignment, and doing so in a competent, reasonable manner is generally only enough for a grade in the 'B' range.

'A' grades will only be awarded when work demonstrates notable excellence. There is no difference in other words, between an 'A' and a 'B' paper save on matters of content. If you make sentence mistakes, do not expect B or A grades in this course.

Grades are administered as letter grades on assignments.

Academic Honesty

In cases of academic misconduct, students will receive an F on the assignment and may also be subject to additional college sanctions. Students will respect the standards of academic integrity. In addition to plagiarism, academic dishonesty includes but is not limited to:

Cheating: Copying from another student or using unauthorized aids or persons in assignment submissions.

Falsification: Making up fictitious information and presenting it as factual or altering records for the purpose of misrepresentation.

Facilitation: Helping another student to cheat, plagiarize, or falsify.

E-mail:

When contacting me via e-mail, be sure to use the internal D2L email system. I try to respond to messages in a timely fashion, but ask that you use e-mail prudently and expect at least 48 hours for a reply. I usually do not respond to emails at the end of the day over weekends/holidays.
