COURSE GUIDELINES & EXPECTATIONS

There are a number of components to this course.

Lectures: This is a fully in-person, classroom-based offering. Both Tuesdays and Thursdays will have lecture components to them – it takes a lot of time to travel the world!

Assignments: There are ten assignments in the course, all of which focus on specific aspects of each of the regions we cover. You'll be given a week to complete a series of questions that pertain to a topic or a locale and your submissions will be due either in-class or in the D2L Assignment Folder, as specified.

Tricks: I am asking each of you to prepare a segment to feature during one week of the term. The most obvious option would be to assemble a slideshow of vacation pictures that you have – your demographic has travelled more than most – so pictures from Thailand, Mexico, Cuba, Australia...or any other destination...would be a casual and welcome addition to the lecture on that region. If you haven't travelled, you can prepare an educational slide deck – past-students have profiled the making of Ukrainian Easter eggs, hide-tanning in Morocco, the Sami people of Finland, the Falklands war, K-Pop, wild apples of Kazakhstan...anything is a good idea...and this is meant to be a low-stakes, enjoyable activity. Everyone is asked to do one Trick during the term; and, you all have the option to do up to five – if you do, you no longer have to do the term project, the Travel Itinerary.

Travel Itinerary Project: You will be asked to create a detailed travel itinerary. This will likely be a portfolio submission that contains maps, schedules, travel routings and destination descriptions. You'll need to clear your routing for your hypothetical trip – a trip that must be overland and not use air travel. You will decide upon a theme for the trip: architecture, cultural markets, language or religious diversity, national parks, resource industries, etc. and you will plan and describe the best way to pursue this theme in your region. This assignment is worth 20% of your final grade and should not be underestimated. As stated earlier, you have the option to do five Tricks over the term and, if you do, you will no longer be required to do this assignment.

Tests: There are two tests this term: a Midterm Exam on Thursday, February 16th and a Final Exam during the College Exam week.
