NAME:	Shannon Keyser
EMAIL:	keysers@camosun.bc.ca
OFFICE:	CHW 207
HOURS:	Monday 1430-1520, Thursday 1230-1320 and by appointment.

As your course instructor, I endeavour to provide an inclusive learning environment. However, if you experience barriers to learning in this course, do not hesitate to discuss them with me. Camosun College is committed to identifying and removing institutional and social barriers that prevent access and impede success.

CALENDAR DESCRIPTION

Learners synthesize nursing and interdisciplinary knowledge into nursing care in the context of select acute and chronic illnesses, and the perioperative period, across the lifespan. Learners will integrate foundational knowledge and clinical reasoning skills in order to provide safe, patient-centred, evidence-based, and culturally competent care for persons across the continuum of health and across the lifespan. Learners will focus on some of Canada's most prevalent illnesses, including mental illnesses. Learners examine nursing practice and health care environments using the concepts of patient vulnerability, ethics and informed consent, health promotion, and Indigenous ways of knowing.

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of this course a student will be able to:

- a) apply the nursing process and clinical reasoning skills to develop plans of care for patients experiencing prevalent acute and chronic illnesses, or surgical procedures.
- b) engage in quality improvement in the context of perioperative care, illness management, rehabilitation and supportive care.

- c) examine nursing care across the lifespan for prevalent acute and chronic illness.
- d) apply pharmacological knowledge related to nursing care of prevalent acute and chronic illnesses.
- e) employ the principles of Informed Consent when providing nursing care for patients.
- f) enact the Mental Health Act as it pertains to the role of the registered nurse.
- g) apply select learning theory, to specific patient conditions, for the promotion of health and wellbeing.
- h) consider the concept of patient vulnerability and its implications for nursing practice.
- i) provide safe, competent, ethical and culturally competent care to patients from a health promoting perspective.
- j) integrate knowledge of colonization, residential schooling, and the history of "Indian hospitals" with Indigenous peoples' sense of vulnerability in the health care setting.
- k) integrate the Quality and Safety Education for Nurses (QSEN) competencies in advocating and promoting safe, patient-centred care.

COURSE GUIDELINES & EXPECATIONS

Terminology

In course materials, we refer to "patients," "clients," and "persons" interchangeably to reflect the historic societal influences that have shaped the history of caring for individuals. We recognize that most nurses have a preference and that none of the above terms adequately address all the possible situations related to nursing care.

Weekly Preparation

You are provided with a required reading list for each module. Most of your readings are from your textbooks listed below, with some additional articles and websites. It is very important that you acquire these resources. Additional readings may be provided in class in the form of handouts, or you may be directed to resources from the library or online. Use the weekly learning outcomes to inform your reading and to prepare for your exams and assignments. Please note that additional material may be presented in class beyond the readings and is examinable.

SCHOOL OR DEPARTMENTAL INFORMATION

Students are required to read and are accountable for following College policies and practicum guidelines as described in the BSN and HHS Student Handbooks.

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITY

Enrolment at Camosun assumes that the student will become a responsible member of the College community. As such, each student will display a positive work ethic, assist in the preservation of College property, and assume responsibility for their education by researching academic requirements and policies; demonstrating courtesy and respect toward others; and respecting expectations concerning attendance, assignments, deadlines, and appointments.
