NAME: Dr. Michael Pollock

EMAIL: If you need to contact me about an urgent personal matter, you can email me at pollockm@camosun.ca. Otherwise, for help with course-related material outside of class time, please come see me during my office hours.

OFFICE: Fisher 308B

HOURS: Tuesdays & Thursdays at 11:30-12:50

As your course instructor, I endeavour to provide an inclusive learning environment. However, if you experience barriers to learning in this course, do not hesitate to discuss them with me. Camosun College is committed to identifying and removing institutional and social barriers that prevent access and impede success.

CALENDAR DESCRIPTION

This course is an overview of the medical and non-medical use of drugs with cultural influences; a review of the scientific literature on drugs, behaviour, and the CNS; pharmacology, neuropharmacology; a survey of research methods used in psychopharmacology and the biochemical and neurophysiological bases of psychoactive drug action.

PREREQUISITE(S):

All of:

- C in PSYC 110

CO-REQUISITE(S):

Not Applicable

EXCLUSION(S):

Not Applicable

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES / OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this course a student will be able to:

1. The historical uses of psychoactive drugs worldwide and the history of drug laws from an international perspective.
2. Current Canadian, European and American drug laws.
3. The research base of the current debate on drug use, with a focus on the LeDane Commission, and current Senate and House illegal drug uses committee findings.
4. Various models of the cause of drug use and addiction with particular reference to the Reward System model of drug addiction.
5. The basic principles of pharmacology and neuropharmacology with regard to psychoactive substances.
6. The basic biochemical processes in the effects of psychoactive chemicals on the neuron and CNS systems.
7. The basic mechanisms of neuronal functioning that are affected by the introduction of psychoactive substances into the CNS.
8. Psychological effects of various drugs.
9. The basic principles of ethnopharmacology.
10. The mode of action, etiological models, side effects and patterns of use with regard to the major drugs used to treat mood disorders, anxiety disorders, schizophrenia, and selected other mental disorders.
11. The basic mechanisms of action, short and long term effects of alcohol, caffeine, marijuana, hallucinatory drugs, nicotine, and other selected drugs.
12. The basic methods of drug abuse treatment in use today.
13. The basic methods of drug education used in various parts of the world.

COURSE GUIDELINES & EXPECTATIONS

This introductory course will review the major psychoactive (“mind-altering”) drugs, their effects, and their possible underlying mechanisms of action, as reported in the scientific literature. In particular, we will study a sort of alchemy of the mind – how drugs are able to turn lesser mental states into golden ones (a psychological version of the “philosopher’s stone”), and the limitations/side-effects of our current drugs. The first half of the course will examine the fundamentals of psychopharmacology: drug classifications and names, pharmacokinetics, pharmacodynamics, analysis of drug effects (both physiological and psychological), consequences of long-term drug use (tolerance/sensitization and harmful side-effects), and the causes/treatments of drug addiction. The remainder of the course will then apply these fundamentals to, as well as explore the history of, the major classes of psychoactive drugs: depressants (e.g., alcohol, anti-anxiety sleeping pills), stimulants (e.g., cocaine, amphetamines, caffeine, chocolate, nicotine), opioids (e.g., pain killers, some cough medicine, heroin), antipsychotic and antidepressant medication, cannabinoids (e.g., marijuana), hallucinogens (e.g., LSD, magic mushrooms, peyote, ecstasy), and dissociative anesthetics (e.g., PCP, ketamine). In addition to studying the concepts associated with these topics, students will have the opportunity to engage in their own independent research. This course is a must for anyone interested in understanding the effects of drugs on our minds and the first-hand experience you will gain in conducting psychopharmacology research will provide you with the skills to critically evaluate research claims for their practical usefulness in your personal and professional life.

ASSIGNED READINGS

All of the assigned readings for this course are from the course textbook. The Course Schedule above lists the specific chapters and subsections of the textbook that you are to read each week. You should complete these assigned readings prior to class so that you can fully contribute to discussions of the material. Concept notes, available in D2L Content, list the names of the concepts and their associated points (taken from the assigned readings) that you will need to know for quizzes and exams. However, it is recommended that you read all of the information in the assigned readings and not just rely upon these concept notes since the organization, figures, and additional information contained within the course textbook will help improve your overall understanding of the concepts.

ONLINE QUIZZES

To help ensure you are familiar enough with the concepts from the assigned readings to be able to engage in in-depth discussions of them in class, before each lecture day you should complete in D2L the quiz for that lecture. All quizzes will cover solely the material from the assigned readings that the concept notes contain. Each quiz will contain 20 questions about randomly chosen concept points on a given lecture topic. Each question on the quizzes will describe one of the concept points and ask for the name of that concept. The format of the quizzes will be matching-type questions, with each question listing alphabetically as answer options the names of all the concepts from the relevant lecture and you will be instructed to match the given concept description with its concept name. Half of the quiz questions will be knowledge-type questions which use for descriptions of the concepts the same wording as the points in the concept notes, while the other half of quiz questions will be understanding-type questions which reword these points usually in the form of a real-life scenario. You can access each quiz through D2L Quizzes and take it an unlimited number of times up until its deadline (see the Course Schedule above), with only the highest score you achieve recorded as your mark for that quiz. In addition to being worth marks, the quizzes will also help prepare you for exams since they cover the same content from the concept notes, although they use different scenarios for the understanding-type questions.

IN-CLASS QUIZZES

The format of the in-class quizzes will be the same as the online quizzes described above except that they will be closed-book (i.e., no notes allowed), will be held in lab, and you will only be given a single attempt at each of them.

EXAMS

Exams will be in-class, closed book, and will follow the same format as the in-class quizzes (as described above) except that they will be longer (~50-100 questions) and cover multiple lecture topics. The content of the questions will cover equally the concepts from each lecture topic that the exam is designed to assess your knowledge/understanding of. You will only be given a single attempt at each exam.

INDEPENDENT RESEARCH (OPTIONAL)

The independent research project is optional, designed to help those who wish to learn how to apply research methods to best answer their own personal psychopharmacological questions/problems. With special permission from the instructor, you may conduct actual research in which you develop and write in stages throughout the semester a psychopharmacological research project involving a longitudinal study of yourself and your group members. Instructions, forms, templates, and examples for these stages are available in D2L Content. Each week, you will work on your research project outside of class time and then in lab consult with your instructor about it. Since each stage builds on the work of previous stages, you must correctly complete each stage in order to receive marks on subsequent stages, with opportunities given throughout the semester for revisions of previous stages. Groups are encouraged to work ahead on stages but must wait for written instructor approval of proposed methods before data collection takes place. Students granted permission to conduct a research project, but who fail to show up to lab and earnestly contribute in a timely fashion to their group's research project, may have their permission revoked by the instructor. Students who complete a project that has received instructor approval of each its stages will also be given an exclusive invitation to submit their research report for publication in our department's online journal, the Journal of Camosun Psychology Research (JoCPR).

DEADLINES

The Course Schedule above lists the specific dates for when the quizzes/exams/assignments are due. There are no make-up exams for this course. Failing to take an exam by its scheduled date will result in a score of zero for that exam. Exceptions may be granted at the discretion of the instructor for demonstrated cases of hardship or extenuating circumstances (e.g., a medical emergency). In contrast to the hard deadlines for exams, the marks from quizzes not completed by their deadlines will automatically be waived and their weight distributed proportionately to the remaining course items. The marks from Independent Research stages not successfully completed by the last day of labs will automatically be waived and their weight distributed proportionately to the remaining course items.
