INSTRUCTOR DETAILS

NAME: Dr. Stephen Fielding

E-mail: FieldingS@camosun.ca

Website: <http://camosun.ca/learn/school/arts-science/bios/Fielding-Stephen.html>

OFFICE: Young 320

HOURS: In person or via Collaborate on Mondays and Wednesdays 12:30 to 1:20. Or by appointment.

Instructor Bio:

Growing up in a railway family, I spent my childhood moving around, from Niagara Falls to Fort Erie, Sarnia, and finally, Winnipeg. I've also lived in Vancouver, Toronto, and Rome, Italy. I completed my Bachelor's degree at the University of Winnipeg, followed by a Master of Arts from Simon Fraser University and Ph.D. from the University of Victoria.

I have taught History and Religion at four colleges and universities and published research on a wide range of topics, including immigration, multiculturalism, sport, gender, religion, and ethnic food. My wife is from Italy and we are parents of a 12-year-old girl and almost 7-year-old ~~wild animal~~ boy.

An understanding of the world's religious traditions, particularly of their similarities and differences, is critical to the development of a person's worldview and grasp of their place in the diverse human landscape. I am looking forward to exploring Religions of the East together this semester

As your course instructor, I endeavour to provide an inclusive learning environment. However, if you experience barriers to learning in this course, do not hesitate to discuss them with me. Camosun College is committed to identifying and removing institutional and social barriers that prevent access and impede success.

COURSE SCHEDULE, TOPICS, AND ASSOCIATED PREPARATION / ACTIVITY / EVALUATION

The following schedule and course components are subject to change with reasonable advance notice, as deemed appropriate by the instructor.

Students registered with the Centre for Accessible Learning (CAL) who complete quizzes, tests, and exams with academic accommodations have booking procedures and deadlines with CAL where advanced noticed is required. Deadlines can be reviewed on the CAL exams page. <http://camosun.ca/services/accessible-learning/exams.html>

Lectures: The lectures will appear on the D2L course site as a pre-recorded PowerPoint file with video and audio every Tuesday at 11:30 am

The lectures aim to follow a similar structure to the textbook. Read actively the assigned textbook readings for each lecture, ideally having guide questions beside you (These are the questions you consider as you read the material or the ones provided in the textbook), and always be aware of the major themes of each chapter. The themes are listed in the textbook on the first page of every chapter. Students who do the required readings each week and view the lectures will gain a stronger understanding of eastern world religions, be more likely to enjoy the course, and be well positioned for success.

On certain occasions during the semester, leaders from our local religious communities (i.e. a Buddhist priest) will visit the class for an online presentation. These visits are a highlight of the course because they generate interactive and personable discussions with a practicing expert in the faith. As such engagements can be arranged, the lecture schedule and content will change accordingly.

Seminars: Each week, students must upload their seminar contributions every Wednesday before 11:59 pm (midnight). They will respond to others' posts before the next evening at 11:59 pm (midnight).

Detailed Instructions about the Seminars

The seminar component of the course is critically important to the student (and instructor) learning experience, which is reflected in its weighting as 30 percent of your final grade. During the seminars, you will discuss and sometimes debate the assigned seminar materials. These are mostly based on the textbook chapters, sometimes in addition to other sources (eg. Scripture excerpts) made available on D2L

As part of your seminar preparedness, I strongly recommend that you first read the pre-set questions on D2L and then explore the readings themselves.

My role in the online seminar discussions is primarily as an observer and occasional moderator, if required. I read and thoughtfully consider every post and might contribute my own comments from time to time.

*Students who miss three or more seminars will forfeit their entire participation grade.

Order of Participation:

All postings should be made in the "Discussion" link for that day's webpage (On the D2L Course Page, Go to My Tools → Content → Select the Week on the left (eg. Week 1) You will see a Seminar Discussions link further down the page). Your first day's postings should start a thread; the second day's postings (your responses) should be made on other students' threads.

Wednesday before 11:59pm (midnight)

1. Contribute your initial 100-word “first impressions” post. Some suggested questions to guide your response: What did you learn? What surprised you? How is the story, idea, value, claim, belief or practice in this passage similar or different to those in other religious traditions? What questions do you have?
2. Then answer 2 of the prescribed questions I’ve provided on D2L. Each one must be a minimum of 50 words

Thursday before 11:59pm (midnight)

3. React/add to 2 other students’ threads from the day before. Your response can be to their initial “first impressions” post and/or to their answers to the prescribed questions. Each one must be a minimum of 50 words

What you should do

In your responses, I need to see thoughtful consideration of the scriptures and other sources you read, communicated effectively to the other students.

You are welcome to mention what was interesting, clear or unanswered, and what made (or did not make sense) to you. Don’t worry: if something doesn’t seem to make sense to you, there are probably other students feeling the same way. Everyone is on a learning path here. In your posts, feel free to include your own questions for other students, as long as they relate to the material. Great dialogue and debate always starts with a thought-provoking question. “Comparison” is one of the highest forms of analysis. I strongly encourage you to look for similarities and differences in the great Eastern religious traditions, and perhaps also consider how they compare and contrast to the western secular society in which most of us live. As we move further into the semester, you will be better able to compare themes in one religious tradition (eg. the afterlife/lives, nature, reality and illusion, views on food, the nature of the Divine, principles to live by, good and evil, etc.) with ones we’ve already studied.

What you should not do

I do not want to see mere congratulatory responses to other students’ contributions, such as “Josh, you did a great job and clarified everything for me.” This is a poor attempt at participation, akin to a Facebook “like.” The result will be a very poor grade. Make sure that you write an informed response that adds richness to the discussion or debate. It’s okay to compliment someone (and right so, because many of you have fascinating things to say!), but make sure to follow up your virtual high-five with your own contribution. Also, try to avoid “going into the weeds,” so to speak. Keep on topic as much as possible. It is okay to meld some personal experience into your postings, but first speak to the assigned reading material. For your participation mark, you are assessed primarily on the quality of your interpretations and grasp of the course readings.

(a) Assignments (none)

(b) Online Tests – In the span of fourteen weeks, REL 102 covers a remarkable number of religions and their traditions, philosophies, and practices. To simplify this venture, the course material is organized into four online tests, spread across the semester schedule.

Each test consists of:

- i) Short Answer and Multiple Choice questions, which will require you to revisit your lecture notes and textbook readings.

ii) Reflection and Application Long Answer Questions. The purpose of these paragraph-style inquiries is to encourage the student to go well beyond identifying and reciting the course material to apply their growing understanding of Eastern World Religions. More specifically, these questions will test your knowledge of the key religious concepts, practices, and systems by asking you to compare and contrast them and/or imagine how followers of a religious tradition will respond to certain contexts.

(c) Exams— There is no mid-term exam or final exam in REL 102 this semester.
