B. Temporary Grades

Temporary grades are assigned for specific circumstances and will convert to a final grade according to the grading scheme being used in the course. See Grading Policy at <http://camosun.ca/about/policies/education-academic/e-1-programming-&-instruction/e-1.5.pdf> for information on conversion to final grades, and for additional information on student record and transcript notations.

Use of Recording Devices in Classrooms

The lectures and materials delivered or provided in this course are subject to copyright owned by Debbie Hlady. It is prohibited to record or copy by any means, in any format, in whole or in part, in the absence of express written permission from the instructor, any of the lectures or materials provided or published in any form during or from this course.

Classroom Rules

- Please do not be late for class, as it is disruptive. Students arriving late may be denied permission to enter the classroom.
- Cell phones or other personal electronic devices (iPods, etc) are not allowed in the classroom. Students texting/checking messages/listening to music/etc. may be asked to leave, and will lose marks for Participation. If the Participation mark has been reduced to zero, marks may be deducted from the next graded assignment.
- Come prepared. Read the assigned chapters before class. You will have to spend time reading and reviewing the textbook and lecture notes outside of class if you want to succeed in college.
- Personal computers are not permitted, except for documented medical reasons.
- Please respect the ideas and opinions of others, and we will respect yours.

Attendance

Regular attendance is necessary for success in this course. Many of the concepts may be new to you, and you will be expected to know material from the lectures and class discussions. It seems obvious, but students who attend all classes, read the material, and participate actively in the class tend to do better.

Assignment Submission and Format

- All out-of-class assignments must be typed (double-spaced, using a reasonable font with one-inch margins). Hand-written papers or single-spaced papers will not be accepted. Do not use title pages. E-mailed assignments are not accepted.

- Late assignments will lose 5 marks out of 100 per day of lateness, including weekends. For example, if an essay receives an "A-" (80/100) but is handed in 2 days late, the grade will become "B-" (70/100).
- Assignments must be handed in by 5:30 pm on the due date for daytime classes, or the late penalty will be applied. (Printing problems are not an excuse.)
 - Assignments dropped off at my office must be signed & dated/timed by a faculty member in the Paul Building before being slid under my office door (Paul 332).
- Please do not use binders/plastic folders to submit assignments, but do ensure they are stapled.
- If you miss an in-class assignment or test, you must inform your instructor BEFORE the class. You will need a doctor's note in order to be granted permission to write a test at a later date, or to hand in an assignment late without penalty. Without medical documentation, you will receive a zero on tests you miss, and late marks will be deducted on assignments.
- Medical notes must be from a licensed medical doctor. A note from a professional counselor (psychologist, psychiatrist, Camosun counselor) is also acceptable. I do not need to know the details of your issues; I just need documentation if you miss a test/assignment.
- It is your responsibility to catch up on work missed due to an absence. The instructor will not re-teach the class for you, or hand out her lecture notes.

Plagiarism

- In all assignments, students are expected to do their own writing. You are encouraged to get feedback on your writing from the English Help Centre (Ewing 202). However, copying another person's writing (even 1 sentence) without acknowledgement, or having someone else write all or part of your composition is plagiarism and will incur any or all of the penalties as stated in the college calendar. (Editors should only offer advice or suggestions on how to improve your writing; they may not correct your work!)
- Any student found to have cheated on any assignment will automatically receive a mark of "0" on that assignment.
- Subsequent instances of plagiarism may incur more severe penalties, as outlined in the College calendar. Instructors may report instances of plagiarism, and this information could become part of a student's permanent college record. Students could also be removed from a course, or from the college.

Contacting Your Instructor

- You are encouraged to come to my office during posted office hours. Please make an appointment for other times.
- In person is usually better than email. I will respond to all emails, but depending on the volume of email I get, the response might take a while.
- Please use email for short and simple questions. I will not comment on drafts of your assignments over email, or review an entire lesson that you have missed.
- Emails will be answered during regular working hours, not weekends and evenings.
- If you email any college professor (especially an English professor), please check your message for spelling and grammar. Good writing makes a good impression. Always include your name and the specific class (day & time) you are in.
