

TITLE:	INTRODUCTION TO CANADIAN GOVERNMENT
INSTRUCTOR:	Ross Lambertson Telephone: 370-3373 Home telephone: 384-3390 E-Mail: lamberts@camosun.bc.ca
OFFICE	Dunlop House, Room 260. Hours from 1:30 to 3:00, Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday; also by appointment.
DESCRIPTION:	This course examines politics, political science, Canada's political roots, the economic and social setting, the constitution, and federalism.
OBJECTIVES:	(1) Learning the basics: structures, processes, people, dates, and different theories.  (2) Improving skills in reading, explanation, analysis, and criticism.
TEXTBOOK:	Robert and Doreen Jackson, Canadian Government in Transition , 3rd. edition (for sale in the College bookstore).
READINGS:	"Introduction to Basic Concepts - 2002" (for sale in the College bookstore; except for some minor changes, this is the same as the reading used last Winter for PS 106).  Mark Charlton and Paul Barker, eds., Crosscurrents: Contemporary Political Issues , 4th. ed. (for sale in the College bookstore).
EVALUATION:	a. Three tests - 65% b. One term paper - 30% c. One short project - 5% d. Class participation -- can be used to adjust a final grade upwards by one or two percent

TITLE:	INTRODUCTION TO POLITICAL THOUGHT
INSTRUCTOR:	Ross Lambertson Telephone: 370-3373 Home telephone: 384-3390 E-Mail: lamberts@camosun.bc.ca
OFFICE	Dunlop House, Room 260. Hours from 1:30 to 3:00, Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday; also by appointment.
DESCRIPTION:	This course introduces students to the political ideas and concepts that lie at the root of modern political institutions and practices. Topics will include theories of legitimacy, justice, and democracy, as well as ideologies such as anarchism, communism, socialism, liberalism, conservatism, fascism, feminism, environmentalism, and populism.
OBJECTIVES:	(1) Becoming acquainted with the history and ideas of modern political philosophers and ideologies.  (2) Improving skills in reading, explanation, analysis, and criticism.
TEXTBOOK:	Roger Gibbins, Loleen Youngman, Mindscapes: Political Ideologies Towards the 21st Century (for sale in the College bookstore, and on reserve in the College library).
READINGS:	“Political Thought - Readings - 2002” (for sale in the College bookstore); some news clippings may also be handed out.
EVALUATION:	a. Three tests - 70% b. One term paper - 30% d. Class participation -- can be used to adjust a final grade upwards by one or two percent

- TITLE: INTRODUCTION TO INTERNATIONAL POLITICS
- INSTRUCTOR: Ross Lambertson
Telephone: 370-3373
Home telephone: 384-3390
E-Mail: lamberts@camosun.bc.ca
- OFFICE: Dunlop House, Room 260. Hours from 1:30 to 3:00, Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday; also by appointment.
- DESCRIPTION: This course examines international politics through the study of the state system, international organizations, international violence, and international political economy. There is a special emphasis on Canada and international human rights.
- OBJECTIVES:
- (1) Learning the basic elements of the study of international relations (IR).
  - (2) Improving skills in reading, analysis, criticism, and explanation.
  - (3) Gaining insight into contemporary political issues.
- TEXTBOOK: Daniel Madar, Canadian International Relations (for sale in the College bookstore.)
- READINGS: Some academic articles will be placed on reserve for the term paper.
- EVALUATION:
- a. Three multiple-choice tests - 70%
  - b. One term paper - 30%
  - c. Class participation -- can be used to adjust a final grade upwards by one or two percent.