COURSE OUTLINE

Instructor Information

Instructor: Paula Young
Office hours: Monday 1:00-2:30 pm
Tuesday and Thursday 1:30 - 2:30 pm
Wed. 1:30-2:20 and 5:00 – 5:30 pm OR BY APPOINTMENT
Office Location: Young 323
Phone: 370-3363
E-mail: youngp@camosun.bc.ca

Intended Learning Outcomes

Through reading textbooks and primary source materials, hearing faculty lectures, participating in seminars, writing papers, making presentations, and performing tests, students will:

1. gain an appreciation of critical themes, events, and issues of this period
2. explore the rise of the US as world industrial/military power
3. understand the shifts of American foreign policy since 1865
4. examine American political, economic, racial and gender divisions
5. explore the rise of consumer society
6. examine the evolution of political power
7. reassess and challenge traditional and existing perspectives on critical events and issues of this period

By the end of the course, through exposure to the above materials and ideas, the student should:

1. be able to think critically about historical issues and writing by evaluating the arguments put forward by historians, weighing the evidence they present and making judgments about the strength of their arguments
2. have gained an appreciation of history as a distinct academic discipline, understanding its unique outlook, scope and methods and what distinguishes it from other disciplines
3. be able to use history to confront the issues of today's world, establishing a context for the present and comprehending the accomplishments, failures, tensions and issues of the present era
4. have developed skills in research, and written and oral communication.

The instructor reserves the right to make changes to this outline. A full description of this course is available on the Camosun College web site - www.camosun.bc.ca

Course Content and Schedule

Classes will consist of lectures and seminars. The entire class will meet on Tuesdays for lecture but will be divided into two sections (A or B) for Thursday's seminar groups. Seminars are discussion groups. You are required to read the assigned history articles and to come to class prepared to discuss those articles.

Class times and location:	Lectures:	Tuesday 10:30 am to 12:20 pm
	Seminars:	Thursdays 10:30 to 11:20 am
		Thursdays 11:30 am to 12:20 pm

The class schedule (following) indicates the subject of each lecture and the readings that coordinate with that lecture. It also details the topics for seminar readings, and the due dates for most assignments and exams.

Basis of Student Assessment (Weighting)

Assignments

20% or 25%) Research Essay Please refer to the attached instructions for your essay options.

It is due on March 23. Your essay will be double-spaced with 1" margins. It will include a thesis statement, examples to support your thesis, a conclusion, footnotes, and a bibliography. Grading will be based on the quality of your thesis statement, your ability to clearly express your ideas and to tie your points together, your clarity of writing, and your grammar, syntax and spelling. Late assignments not accepted.

20% Book Review You will review and analyse Dalton Trumbo's, Johnny Got His Gun. Instructions for this assignment are attached. Late assignments will not be accepted. Due date Thursday January 29th. Late assignments not accepted.

Exams

20% Mid Term Exam – Tuesday February 17

25% Final Exam (during final exam period)

Other

15% Seminar Participation You will be marked on your oral participation during seminars. It will be based on the quality, not the quantity, of your participation. Therefore, come prepared to discuss the article's thesis, main points, and the evidence used.

Students who miss more than three (3) seminars will forfeit their entire seminar mark.

Grading System

A+	=	95-100%	B-	=	70-74
A	=	90-94	C+	=	65-69
A-	=	85-89	C	=	60-64
B+	=	80-84	D	=	50-59
B	=	75-79	F	=	0-49

Recommended Materials or Services to Assist Students to Succeed Throughout the Course

LEARNING SUPPORT AND SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

There are a variety of services available for students to assist them throughout their learning. This information is available in the College Calendar, Registrar's Office or the College web site at <http://www.camosun.bc.ca>

ACADEMIC CONDUCT POLICY

There is an Academic Conduct Policy. It is the student's responsibility to become familiar with the content of this policy. The policy is available in each School Administration Office, Registration, and on the College web site in the Policy Section.

HOW TO WRITE A HISTORY BOOK REVIEW

Paula Young
Camosun College

A history book review is different from a literary review and requires students to ask different questions when reading the book. In history, students will generally be asked to review either a non-fiction novel or a book based on historical research.

A good review consists of several parts: a summary of the author's principle thesis or argument (make sure you identify the author and title in your opening sentence), your assessment of how well the author explains or defends the thesis including specific examples from the book to show how the author supports his/her thesis, and, when possible, your evaluation of the book's place in the relevant historiography. Also, you must properly footnote your references and must attach a bibliography. Remember, a book review is not a chapter-by-chapter summary of the book – you are looking to identify the author's thesis.

To begin, carefully read the book keeping in mind that you are trying to identify the author's thesis. Most authors explain their theses in their introduction and/or conclusion; so read those chapters first and make notes as you go. You should be able to write the author's thesis in about 2 or 3 clear sentences.

Once you have read the introduction and conclusion and made appropriate notes, then you can proceed to thoroughly read the book. Again, make notes as you go. In particular, remember to note examples the author used to support his/her thesis so that you can later quote from the book. In your notes be sure to use quotation marks when citing directly from the book so that you do not inadvertently plagiarize when you write your review. As you go, note the page numbers you referenced to obtain your material.

As well, when reading the book, look for examples of how the author qualifies his/her work, or the work of others. Often historians will discuss conclusions reached by other historians, and then offer evidence that broadens, changes, or qualifies their conclusions.

As you read, watch out for the author's bias, or ask yourself, "Where is the author coming from?" All authors have biases; some may present more balanced views than others but they all have biases. For example, if an author is writing from a Marxist perspective, there may be numerous references in his/her work to "the evils" of capitalism or he/she may say that capitalist forces are responsible for historical changes.

Your evaluation of the book should address the following questions (among others): Is the author's argument convincing? (why or why not?) Do you agree or disagree with the author? (again, why/not?) Has the author extensively researched the subject? Has the author uncovered new material or primary sources about the subject? Or, has the author simply reworked other secondary sources? These questions help assess the reliability of the book.

Now, prepare a draft review of the article. Look it over, check for sentence clarity, spelling, grammar, etc. Make sure you clearly articulate your ideas so the instructor can decipher your intent. Read it aloud; have someone else read it aloud – be sure it sounds clear.

Finally, to become familiar with the literature of the field you can refer to the work of other reviewers. To do this you will want to refer to EBSCO Host, accessed on-line through the Camosun library web-site (click on magazines and journals). The librarians will also be happy to help you with this task. While it is fine to cite from their work, remember that this is your book review, so use their work sparingly. Also, if you quote or paraphrase from their work, or even use their ideas, you must footnote the work. Once you have examined other scholarly work, you can integrate this information into your essay.

Now it is time to do your final draft. Again, completely check your work for clarity, spelling and grammar. Do not plagiarize – it will result in a failing grade. Please refer to the college's academic conduct policy on the Camosun website (address on your outline).

Please refer to Richard Marius and Melvin E. Page, A Short Guide to Writing About History, 4th edition, for footnote and bibliographic formatting. A copy of the book is located in the Reference section of the Camosun Library.

If you have any questions or need assistance, please see the instructor before the assignment is due.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR HISTORY 232 ASSIGNMENT DUE MARCH 23, 2004

YOU WILL CHOOSE ONE OF THE FOLLOWING OPTIONS. PLEASE CAREFULLY READ THE INSTRUCTIONS.

For each of the following essay options, your essay will include the elements of a standard essay – a thesis statement (argument), examples to support your thesis, a conclusion, footnotes and a bibliography. (See Richard Marius and Melvin Page, A Short Guide to Writing About History in Reference and Reserve sections of the library or check the following website: www.uvic.ca/history and click on Links to find the history style guide) It will be double spaced with 1" margins.

OPTION ONE - WORTH 20%

You will refer only to your Faragher text and the accompanying Documents Set. You must use two or more of the documents from the Documents Set. (Other sources cannot be used without my permission) For background information, read Faragher Chapters 27 and 29. For primary source information, use Documents Set, Chapter 29.

While this may not seem like a standard essay it will contain all of the elements of one. An argument, supported examples, and a conclusion. It will be no more than 5 pages in length (excluding footnotes).

THE SPEECH – you are a young American soldier stationed in Vietnam in the 1960s and 1970s. You are speaking to a troop of newly arrived recruits and explaining to them why the United States is in the Vietnam War. However, you have reservations about America's involvement, as do others, so when you convince these new recruits of the necessity of American involvement, you will need to address criticisms of US involvement.

OPTION TWO – WORTH 20%

You will refer only to your Faragher text and the accompanying Documents Set. You must use two or more of the documents from the Documents Set. (Other sources cannot be used without my permission) For background information refer to your Faragher text, Chapter 24. For primary sources refer to the Documents Set, Chapter 24.

While this may not seem like a standard essay it will contain all of the elements of one. An argument, supported examples, and a conclusion. It will be no more than 5 pages in length (excluding footnotes)

THE LETTER – You are a poor woman living somewhere in the United States during the Great Depression of the 1930s. In your letter to a relative or friend, you are explaining your particular situation, explaining the New Deal and trying to understand critics' objections to it.

OPTION THREE – WORTH 25%

During the continuing American war on Iraq, the Americans "rescued" Private Jessica Lynch from an Iraqi hospital. In this essay, you will examine and analyse the media reports of the rescuing of Jessica Lynch. This will not simply be an analysis of what happened but it will also be an analysis of media reporting

There are 270,000 references to Private Lynch on the "Google" search engine and another 70 on EBSCO Host. In addition, you can search the web sites of specific media, ie the Guardian newspaper, CBC, New York Times etc. The CBC web site refers to the report aired on the Passionate Eye – to find this go to www.cbc.ca, click on "News" and search for "Jessica Lynch."

The Quick Search is located on the top right side of the web page. In addition, students may find information on the White House web page. Go to www.whitehouse.gov/

Students will need to carefully filter through the information and pick out stories from American media sources as well as international media sources. Be aware of their differences.

Your essay will be no more than 8 pages in length (excluding footnotes and bibliography)

OPTION 4 – WORTH 25%

For this essay, you will consider the case of Maher Arar and answer the question: To what extent does the American government sanction the use of torture?

Since September 11th, the American government has used racial profiling to identify potential terrorists in the United States. It has violated the Geneva Convention by detaining prisoners in Guantanamo Bay, Cuba and has deported immigrants to their former homelands. The American government officially denies using torture to extract confessions. However, the government willingly deports suspected terrorists to nations that do use torture.

Recently, the Canadian government obtained the release of Maher Arar from Syria. The American government had detained and then deported Arar, a Canadian citizen born in Syria, to Syria. Upon his return to Canada Arar reported that the Syrians indeed had tortured him in an attempt to exact a confession.

Some places to search: "Google," Ebsco Host, cbc.ca, Al Jazeera. Some helpful hints: for "Google" search under Maher Arar, or extradition United States Syria, or deportation United States Syria, or torture United States.

Your essay will be no more than 8 pages in length (excluding footnotes and bibliography)
