REQUIRED TEXTS:

Laurie Kirszner, Stephen Mandell & Candace Fertile, eds. Literature: Reading, Reacting, Writing. Mandatory.

Yann Martel. Life of Pi. Mandatory.

English 160, Section 001 Course Pack. Mandatory.

A college / university level dictionary (such as Oxford's or Webster's) and grammar handbook (such as The Little, Brown Compact Handbook).

Gibaldi, Joseph. MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers. 5th Ed. (Recommended).

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

English 160 introduces you to four major literary genres—poetry, short story, novel, and drama from differnet cultural contexts. You learn about the terminology needed to make literary analyses, and be able to recognize specific literary techniques. Through class lectures and discussions, we will form collaborative interpretations, contributing to the critical dialogue and understanding of surveyed, historical literary texts. We will work both chronologically and thematically in order to draw comparisons between specific works. In and outside of class, literary texts will be examined in a variety of ways: personal reflection, class lectures/discussions and seminars, in-class activities, and written essays.

Keep in mind that English 160 is an intensive reading course. Close reading requires time and concentration. To get the most out of this course, complete the required readings before class. Write questions and comments while you read in order to approach the texts with a critical focus. Attendance, preparation and participation are required in this class.

This course provides you with the critical reading, research, and writing skills you need for more advanced courses in English and the humanities. To this aim, we use writing workshops and peer reviews that allow you to "test" your writing on readers (your class members). Workshops, directly linked to assigned essays, give you insight into how your structure, support, and express your thoughts. They allow you to:

- (a) anticipate reader response;
- (b) receive the benefits of peer reviews; and
- (c) gain the editing skills required for

All formal assignments will be graded on the assumption that they have received the benefit of one writing workshop. Do not email essay drafts to me. Drafts will be work-shopped in class; if you want extra help on your work, see me during office hours and bring a hard-copy of your draft with you.

IMPORTANT:

- Read this outline (also called a "course syllabus") in its entirety.
- Valuable terms, notes, and brainstorming questions can be found in the English 160 Course Pack. Textbook readings in Literature: Reading, Reacting, Writing accompany specific assignments, based on the attached class schedule and reading list.
- Our classroom environment is one of mutual respect and active exchange. Be prepared to listen attentively, as well as contribute to class discussion in a spirit of good will at all times.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

By the end of this course, you should be able to:

- Analyse and interpret a variety of literary works from different cultural backgrounds, both in their conventions and departures from conventions;
- Identify and analyse the distinguishing characteristics of literary genres;
- Demonstrate an understanding of historical contexts of literary works, and how these reflect the attitudes, values and issues of historical eras;
- Distinguish between literal and figurative meaning in literary works;
- Distinguish between supportable and insupportable opinions about literary works;
- Develop an informed critical analysis/interpretation of literary works;
- Analyse the themes of literary works;
- Recognize certain stylistic features of individual authors;
- Articulate individual responses to literary works; respond to, and be appreciative of, different interpretations of literary works;
- Use the basic research skills associated with literary criticism;
- Use appropriate documentation (MLA style) for quoting literary works and secondary sources;
- Collaborate with a peer-group in a professional manner on all aspects of writing and reading.

EVALUATION:

Evaluation for English 160 is based on class participation and essay assignments. Class attendance is absolutely compulsory. Students who do not attend class regularly, or who fail to hand in assignments, may be advised to drop the course by the designated deadline.

Read the first section of the English 160: Course Pack for important information on essay presentation, grading standards, workshop guidelines and conduct, and correction symbols.

MISSED CLASSES: Students regularly not attending class regularly jeopardize their chances for a passing grade. It is your responsibility to get the lecture notes and handouts that you have missed in class. You may consult me regarding missed classes during office hours.

MISSED PEER-EDIT REVIEWS: You cannot "make up" a missed peer-edit review completed in a workshop. If you miss a peer review, provide written documentation of a medical emergency, or other valid reason for absence. ALL peer-edit reviews must be handed in with your final assignments.

LATE ESSAYS: Late essays will receive a letter grade and percentage, but no commentary. No essays are accepted if handed in later than one week after the assignment date.

ESSAY ASSIGNMENT/ EXAM DESCRIPTION AND DUE DATES:

Note also that the word count here is not a computer word count, but rather the academic word count. A word is counted if it is five characters or longer (short words like "the" and "to" do not count).
