2. Intended Learning Outcomes

At the end of the course the student will be able to:

- 1. Display expanded knowledge of contemporary and historical 2D imagery, materials, techniques and processes through projects and research papers.
- 2. Design and execute own projects using a 2D format.
- 3. Present own work in a professional manner with attention to all aspects of the presentation process.
- 4. Critique own and others' projects.

3. Course Content and Schedule

Overall Objectives

Students will develop a designated theme, making their own choices of working procedures, techniques and materials within the framework of 2D studio (e.g., drawing, painting, photo, slide projections, computer generated imagery, photocopy imagery). The course is designed so the student can move through the designated theme towards a personal direction.

Specific Objectives:

During this course, students will:

- 1. discover the two-dimensional medium(s) appropriate for their future self-directed work;
- 2. participate in individual and group critiques, and discuss the form and content of their own work and others;
- 3. appreciate that the discipline needed to produce successful work in a self-directed situation must come from oneself, and is not supported by project structures and boundaries;

4. discover that concentrated self-directed studio work will enable a deeper, richer understanding and appreciation of one's own work and the work of others;
 5. encounter new processes and technical skills presented in 2D mini workshops. The specific nature of these will depend on the demand and/or availability of resources.
- Students will be shown videos and/or slides and are expected to attend visiting artist lectures and gallery exhibitions and to write reviews. They will also write a short research paper for presentation in class.

5. Basis of Student Assessment (Weighting)

The instructor will act as a critical resource person and the class will follow individual and group critique sessions. the student can expect to put considerable input into the critical appraisal of the ongoing work. Class critiques will take place approximately once a month and individual progress sessions on a weekly basis.

The evaluation will be based on

- The success of the work relative to the original planning proposal and to evolving concerns: content (75%)
- The aesthetic quality of the work produced; the students' ability to effectively deal with the formal "construction" of the work: form
- The quality of ideas: exploration, inventiveness, inquisitiveness (75%)
- Intensity of work and class/critique involvement (15%)
- Reviews and in-class presentation (10%)
