Intended Learning Outcomes

At the end of the course, students will be able to

- 1) Describe and evaluate traditional ethical theories in relation to ethical practice in healthcare and nursing.
- 2) Identify the theoretical underpinnings and consequences people's positions on ethical issues.
- 3) Develop skills in ethical reasoning and judgment.
- 4) Describe the relationship between the CAN Code of Ethics and ethical theories, including an understanding of the role of professional values in ethical decision making.
- 5) Describe how ethical decision making is enacted in professional practice.
- 6) Through discussion and writing, resolve ethical dilemmas that arise in nursing practice.

Required Materials

(a) Texts

Philosophy 250 Handout (Available in the bookstore)

If your grammar needs work, you may wish to purchase a small style guide with a section on common errors in grammar and usage.

Course Content and Schedule

Week 1: Jan. 8:

First Hour: course outline; Division into debate groups

Second and Third Hours: lecture on meta-ethical theories

Week 2: Jan. 15

Readings: p. 0 – 21 and 415 - 420

Study Q

1. You will be asked to describe an ethical or a meta-ethical theory and one objection to it which I pick out of a hat at the beginning of the exam.

HW: An example of a strong argument with true premises.

Week 3: Jan. 22

Readings: p. 22 – 63 and reread 415 - 420

Study Q

2. Does nursing need its own moral theory? Explain.

HW: An example of a weak argument with true premises.

Debate: Therapeutic touch should be an insured procedure.

Week 4: Jan. 29

Readings: p. 64 – 175 and 421 -423

Study Q

3. Give a prescriptive definition of ‘healthy’ and defend it. Ensure that you deal with ‘mentally healthy’.

HW: lexical, a prescriptive and a persuasive definition of ‘professional’.

Debate: Pedaphiles are not morally responsible for their illegal sexual behaviour with children.

Week 5: Feb. 5

Readings: p. 189 – 209 and fallacies 1 and 2 on p. 423

Study Q

4. Using a principle of distributive justice, explain what types of procedures should and shouldn't be covered by the MSP. Ensure that you acknowledge and defend any controversial consequences of your position. Examples of types of procedures are cosmetic procedures, procedures required as a result of dangerous choices (for example, smoking or careless lifting), reproduction-related procedures, etc..

HW: An example of an argument that commits the fallacy of argumentum ad hominem and another one that commits the fallacy of appeal to authority.

Debate: Canada should give more money to needy people in other parts of the world, even if that means putting less money into the Canadian health care system.

Week 6: Feb. 12

Readings: p. 252 – 274L and fallacies 3 and 4

Study Q (For final, not midterm!)

1. Compare and contrast the doctrine of double effect and the equivalence thesis.

HW: An argument that commits the fallacy of equivocation and one that argues from ignorance.

Debate: Whoever helped Sue Rodriguez to die acted immorally.

Week 7: Reading Break

Week 8: Feb. 26 Exam 1

Week 9: Mar. 5

Reading: p. 280 – 288 and fallacy 5

Study Q

Same as above.

HW: An example of an argument that commits the fallacy of hypothesis contrary to fact.

Debate: An anencephalic newborn is not morally considerable.

Week 10: Mar. 12

Readings: p. 289 – 304 and fallacy 6

Study Q

2. Present and defend your view on the moral standing of the human fetus.

HW: An argument that commits the fallacy of argumentum ad populum

Debate: Paying someone more than her expenses to be a surrogate mother is immoral.

Week 11: Mar. 19

Readings: p. 326 – 347 and fallacy 7

Study Q

3. When is it morally acceptable for a person to reproduce?

HW: An argument that contains a faulty analogy

Debate: It is always immoral to sterilize someone against his or her will. (Do not consider sexual predators.)

Week 12: Mar. 26

Readings: p. 348- 400 and fallacy 8 and 9

Study Q

4. When, if ever, is the circumcision of a baby boy morally acceptable?

HW: An example of an argument that commits the fallacy of Post Hoc Ergo Propter Hoc and one that is an appeal to pity.

Debate: Winnipeg's Riverview Health Centre did the morally right thing when it imposed a DNR order on Andrew Sawatzky, against his wife's wishes.

Week 13: Ap. 2

Readings: p. 401 – 414 and fallacy 10

Study Q

5. Under what circumstances is it morally acceptable for a nurse to tell a person that another person that the first person has had contact with, or will have contact with, is HIV positive? Why?

HW: An argument that presents a fallacious slippery slope.

Debate: If, after persistent efforts to deter an HIV positive sex worker from working, the worker continues to do so without notifying customers of his or her condition and without engaging in safe sex, then it is morally acceptable for the police to incarcerate the sex worker against his or her will.

Note: the incarceration need not take place in jail.

Week 14: Ap. 9

Readings: CNA Code of Ethics, which is right after page 414, and fallacy 11

Study Q

6. Suggest one change to the CNA Code of Ethics which would improve the Code. Explain why the change is an improvement. (A trivial change will get a trivial mark!)

HW: Confusing correlation with causation.

Debate: Nurses are always morally obliged to abide by the Code because they have implicitly or explicitly promised to do so.

Basis of Student Assessment

Summary

2 exams, one of which will be held in the final exam period - PLAN YOUR HOLIDAYS ACCORDINGLY!!.....	60%
Debate.....	20%
Critical thinking homework	10%
Verbal participation in debate question periods.....	10%
Bonus critical thinking questions on exams.....	4%

Note: Keep all marked assignments in case there is a discrepancy between your record of your marks and my record of your marks.

Formatting Assignments and Exams

- Put the following information on each assignment:
 - your student number;
 - your section number
- Write on both sides of the page, where more than one page is required, and double-space.

Details of Evaluation

Exams: There will be two exams which are worth 30% each. The exams are closed-book. However, you are encouraged to bring a dictionary and/or style guide. Each exam will consist of one of the study questions from the relevant section below. There will also be a bonus question based on the critical thinking section of the handout. It is worth 2%. Thus, it is theoretically possible for a student to end up with 104% at the end of the course.

You may lose marks for making the following mistakes on exams

1. Do not use the first or second person. Here are two examples of the first person: “We cannot pass students who cannot use the English language adequately,” and “I cannot pass students who cannot use the English language adequately.” Here is an example of the second person: “You don’t realise that it is not our fault that we were not taught how to write in high school.” The following are examples of sentences written in the third person. “People cannot pass the buck forever.” “One will find that a style guide is essential in university.”
2. Do not use a pronoun which disagrees with the noun it refers to. (Students often make this mistake when they are trying to use gender neutral language - something you are advised to try to use.) You are advised that in many cases, pronoun disagreement can be avoided through the use of plural nouns. Here is an example of a sentence in which the pronoun disagrees with the noun: “A philosopher should not be so picky about English; they are not English teachers.” Here is the corrected version: “Philosophers should not be so picky about English; they are not English teachers.”
3. Do not use abbreviations or contradictions. For instance, do not use “e. g.,” “i.e.,” or “etc..”
4. Do not ask rhetorical questions.
5. Do not add “ly” to “first,” “second” and so on.
6. Do not say “moral and ethical” because we are using the two words as synonyms.
7. Do not say you ‘feel’ something when that thing is a thought or a belief.
7. Avoid using the following words or be prepared to defend the way you use them: balance, equilibrium, appropriate.

Homework: These assignments are intended to help you to hone your critical thinking skills. Students do not need to do them all. Each homework assignment is marked out of 2% of your final grade. You may do them all if you want to in order to try to get a total of 10% or you may be lucky and get 10% after doing 5 assignments. You may pick which homework assignments you wish to do but they must be handed in within five minutes of the class starting on the day they are listed on the schedule. Given the number of homework assignments you can do, there is no acceptable excuse for handing in late homework assignments.

The subject of the homework assignment must be a nursing issue. You are also encouraged to make these assignments witty.

Debates: You are required to participate in a debate (during the seminar) which is worth 20% of your final grade.

During the first class, students will be divided into groups of two to four people. One or two people in each group will take either the pro or con position on a chosen topic. Each group will be given a topic and a date upon which the group will debate the topic in the seminar period.

You and your interlocutor may wish to get together to debate the topic ahead of time so that you have an opportunity to refine your objections and responses. However, in my experience, debates in which the pro and con sides script the debate beforehand suffer as a result. You will be graded on the strength of your arguments, the knowledge you show on the topic and your ability to present your arguments in a way that helps other students understand the relevant facts and arguments.

Do not read out your part of the debate. If you do read, you will automatically lose 20%. You may occasionally refer to notes.

Handouts are forbidden.

If you are at a loss as to what arguments have been made on the topic, see your textbook, especially the references at the end of relevant papers. If you use the internet, be careful to verify any factual claims made by advocacy groups. Once you have an idea of what issues are at stake and of some of the arguments that have been presented on the topic, you should spend time thinking for yourself on the topic. What do you think the truth of the matter is? What are the best justifications of your position?

Structure of Debates

Concision is a virtue in philosophy.

First,

1. Pro side: one strong argument in favour of the claim. (Speak for up to two minutes.)
2. Con side: objection to the above argument. (Speak for up to thirty seconds.)
3. Pro side: response to the above objection. (Speak for up to thirty seconds.)
4. Con side: objection to above response or a second objection to the pro side's original argument. (Speak for up to thirty seconds.)
5. Pro side: response to the second objection. (Speak for up to thirty seconds.)

Second,

6. Repeat steps one through five above, beginning with the con side this time.

Third,

7. Pro and con sides now answer questions put to them by the class.

Grading System

Percentage	Grade	Grade Point Equivalency
90-100	A+	9
85-89	A	8
80-84	A-	7
77-79	B+	6
73-76	B	5
70-72	B-	4
65-69	C+	3
60-64	C	2
50-59	D	1
0-49	F	0

Temporary grades are assigned for specific circumstances and will convert to a final grade according to the grading scheme being used in the course. See Grading Policy E-1.5 at camosun.ca for information on conversion to final grades, and for additional information on student record and transcript notations.

LEARNING SUPPORT AND SERVICES FOR STUDENTS

There are a variety of services available for students to assist them throughout their learning. This information is available in the College Calendar, at Student Services or the College web site at camosun.ca

STUDENT CONDUCT POLICY

There is a Student Conduct Policy which includes plagiarism. It is the student's responsibility to become familiar with the content of this policy. The policy is available in each School Administration Office, at Student Services, and on the College web site in the Policy Section.
