ENGL-164-002
Indigenous Literature
Winter 2018

“Indigenous peoples are time travellers and shape-shifters, ghosts and astronauts. Some of us are already on our way to the future, but we are not yet there.”

—Billy-Ray Belcourt

COURSE OUTLINE

The course description is online @ <http://camosun.ca/learn/calendar/current/web/engl.html>

Ω Please note: This outline will not be kept indefinitely. It is recommended students keep this outline for their records, especially to assist in transfer credit to post-secondary institutions.

1. Instructor Information

(a)	Instructor:	Michael Stewart
(b)	Office Hours:	TBA
(c)	Location:	Paul Building, Rm 330
(d)	Phone:	250-370-3357
(e)	Email:	stewartm@camosun.bc.ca (This is the best way to contact me)

My name is Michael Stewart. I was born in Anishinaabeg and Haudenosaunee territory in London, Ontario. I'm of German and Scottish ancestry and I have been a guest on Lkwungen and WSÁNEĆ lands since 2015. I'm grateful for the opportunity to teach this class, and I thank my Camosun colleagues Julian Gunn and Jodi Lundgren for their guidance and contributions to the shape and content of this course, as well as June Scudeler (Métis) and the teachers and elders at Eyē? Sqā'lewen for their advice and support.

2. Intended Learning Outcomes

In reading literature, students will be encouraged to make connections, consider meaning, make and support inferences, and evaluate. At the end of the course students will be able to:

1. Analyze Indigenous literature from both the oral and written traditions.
2. Analyze Indigenous pre-contact literature in the genres of song, prayer, and storytelling by addressing their roles within Indigenous communities.
3. Analyze Indigenous literature in the post-contact period through the genres of poetry, fiction, non-fiction and drama.
4. Identify Indigenous literary forms, elements, and techniques.

In discussing literature, students will be given the opportunity to develop and communicate responses and interpretations using varied methods and resources. At the end of the course students will be able to:

1. Identify the continuing inter-relationship of Indigenous pre-contact literatures with the written tradition.
2. Examine Eurocentric notions of literal and figurative meaning in relation to Indigenous literature.
3. Use literary terms such as metaphor, irony, character, setting, and plot.
4. Describe the significance of differing literary interpretations from Native and non-Native perspectives.
5. Use vocabulary associated with analyzing fiction, poetry, drama, and non-fiction.
6. Analyze themes common to Indigenous literature.

- Describe various literary theories that are relevant to the study of Indigenous literature (e.g. post-colonial theory, feminist theory, reader response theory, etc.).

In writing about literature, students will be able to explain, support, and illustrate points in essays. At the end of this course students will be able to:

- Use a critical approach with appropriate language and terminology.
- Clarify, articulate and support a position, while remaining open to, and acknowledging, other possible interpretations.
- Evaluate specific literary techniques.
- Employ close reading skills.
- Use a scholarly essay form, including a thesis; topic sentences; argument and/or analysis; use of quotations; unified, coherent paragraphs and transitions; rhetorical strategies appropriate for purpose and audience; and effective introductions and conclusions.
- Produce writing under exam or exam-like conditions.
- Write clear, concise, effective prose, and know how to identify as well as correct common mechanical and grammatical errors.

In using information literacy skills, students will be able to:

- Determine the nature and extent of the information needed.
- Know what information resources are available, in different formats.
- Use print and electronic resources effectively and efficiently.
- Incorporate and integrate research through correct use of summary, paraphrase and quotation.
- Document sources fully and ethically, according to specified bibliographic conventions.
- Demonstrate how to resource Indigenous knowledge.

3. Required Materials

Texts (Available at Lansdowne Bookstore or online)

7. Additional Comments

- A note on first principles: In this class, we will debate and discuss many things as we explore the diverse, rich and powerful literatures of Indigenous writers and artists. One thing not up for debate is the identity, self-determination and sovereignty of Indigenous people. That means that the multiple and deep harms of colonialism—the dispossession of land and self-determining authority by a dominant settler system of governance and culture—are also not up for debate. This is not meant to limit discussion; on the contrary, it will provide a starting point from which edifying, enriching and mutually instructive conversations can develop and flourish.

If you would like to discuss any of these issues, you are welcome to make an appointment with me and we can converse in my office—not in the classroom.

- All readings must be completed before the class assigned to them. Bring the readings with you to class. Bring the readings with you to class.
- Participation is worth a hefty 10%, so please bring your brilliant ideas and observations to class too. Attending class, preparing well and bringing an inquisitive, generous and energetic spirit not only shows all of us you respect the learning environment, it will put you in a great position to succeed on the assignments. This will be the easiest 10% you make all year so make the most of it. And, of course, the more we participate, the more fun we all will have. It will be so much fun I can't stand it.

- An (important) note on attendance. This course is not comprised simply of assignments to check off. It also includes a number of classroom hours (just over 34, in fact) where you are expected to listen, digest and reflect on the knowledge we all bring to the learning experience. When you miss a class, not only do you miss out on the material, your colleagues miss out on your contributions and receptiveness. Obviously you all have lives outside of this classroom and the unexpected waits for us all. I promise I will meet any note that you must miss a class with compassion and accommodation. That said, to reflect the importance of attendance, I reserve the right to refuse any assignments by a student with more than 25% (i.e. five) unexcused absences.
- Start working right away. Life comes at you fast. And by life, I mean deadlines. Don't procrastinate, do the readings and don't underestimate how long an assignment will take. If you get a disappointing grade on an early assignment, make adjustments – don't assume the same level of work will get you a better mark later. Spoiler: it won't.
- Deadlines: All work must be handed in at the beginning of class on the deadlines given. Unless prior arrangements have been made, late assignments will receive a penalty of 5% per day. Assignments received five days late or more will not be accepted. Extensions will be granted only at the discretion of the instructor.
- As a courtesy to everyone else in the class, please turn off all devices (for example, cell phones and laptops) and pay attention to whoever is speaking.
- Any submission of work that is not the student's or work that is not appropriately attributed to the original source constitutes plagiarism. The college considers plagiarism a serious offence and any attempt to deceive the instructor with plagiarized work will be met with serious consequences, which will at a minimum include a zero on the assignment and could include an F in the course.
- Make use of my office hours and email. It is my sincere hope that we can work together to become better writers and thinkers. A 5-10 minute chat in my office about a paper, an essay or a topic can do wonders. If you are unclear about assignments, about a grade, about anything, visit my office hours or write me a thoughtful email. This will not only help your grade it will help me become a better teacher.
- Any student who faces challenges securing their food or housing and believes this may affect their performance in the course is urged to contact the appropriate Camosun services (listed below) for support. If you are comfortable in doing so, please notify me of any challenges you're facing. This will enable me to accommodate your challenge and provide any support I am able.

8. College Supports, Services and Policies
