COURSE OUTLINE

This course focuses on the application of statistical techniques to geographic problems. Topics include hypothesis formulation, sampling strategies, parametric and non-parametric statistical tests and statistical models. Lab exercises are computer-based.

The course description is online @ <http://camosun.ca/learn/calendar/current/web/geog.html>

☐ Please note: This outline will not be kept indefinitely. It is recommended students keep this outline for their records, especially to assist in transfer credit to post-secondary institutions.

2. Intended Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this course the student will be able to:

1. Demonstrate a working knowledge of elementary statistics and elementary statistical models as applied to spatial processes.
2. Demonstrate an ability to handle spatial data through the application of a statistical computer software package.

3. Required Materials

- (a) Texts: Recommended: McGrew, J.C, Lembo, A.J., and Monroe, C.B. (2014). An Introduction to Statistical Problem Solving in Geography, Waveland.

4. Course Content and Schedule

Lectures: There will be two hours of lecture per week. The lecture period will include PowerPoint slides and lecture material. Depending on the topic there may be in-class problem sessions to further expand the concepts. A scientific calculator (not cellphone) will be useful for in-class problem solving.

Course Website: Lecture notes will be available weekly from the course website on Desire2Learn (D2L). I rely on D2L for a great deal of communication throughout the course. You should be checking our course page daily to be sure you are not missing important announcements.

Labs: Lab sessions are held in the Camosun general computing lab room in the Ewing building. Please note that lab space in the GP labs is extremely tight and do everything you can to capitalize on our lab time together. Finding time outside of class will be difficult.

Attendance during lab periods and exams is mandatory. In the case of illness, the instructor must be contacted prior to the class time and an alternate arrangement must be made; otherwise, a mark of zero will be assigned

You will need to bring pencil, eraser, ruler and a calculator (not cellphone) for lab periods and for all exams.

All labs are due one week from the lab period, except where noted. Labs are due at the beginning of the lab period, no exceptions!! The penalty for assignments handed in late is 10% for the first 24 hours and 10% for each day after. Labs must be handed in as hardcopies. No emailed assignments will be accepted.

Teamwork is encouraged in labs. However, do not copy from each other when handing in assignments. While you may brainstorm and work together, all assignments must be written in your own words. Any students involved in copying will be given a mark of zero for that assignment.

Examinations: There are 2 exams during the term. Exams will focus on the theoretical aspects of the course, the lectures, and applied problems as presented in lab exercises.

Illness, etc.: If you miss a lab or exam due to illness or some other serious reason, I must ask you to provide a doctor's note or other documentation to support your story. Otherwise, a mark of zero for the missed assignment will be given. Exams and assignments are hard to reschedule, so try not to miss them unless you are too sick to perform at a normal level.

Students who miss an exam for a valid reason must contact me within 24 hours with an explanation. In such cases, one makeup exam time will be scheduled, and all students needing it will be expected to attend.

Instructor Absence: In the event of instructor absence, every effort will be taken to ensure a sustained quality of instruction. I will provide as much notice as possible, but please note that this is not always possible in the case of illness. Occasionally, administrative duties might require me to be absent from class. In these cases, as much notice as possible will be given and suitable alternatives to our regular class meeting will be presented to students ahead of time (i.e. pre-recorded lectures, invited speaker, or an on-line module).

Course Schedule: Will be provided the first day of class.

5. Basis of Student Assessment (Weighting)
