4. Course Content and Schedule

Lectures: Tuesday 2:30-4:20 in Young 317

Seminar A: Thursday 2:30-3:20 in Young 317

Seminar B: Thursday 3:30-4:20 in Young 317

5. Basis of Student Assessment (Weighting)

Course Requirements:

As preparations for each week, you are expected to read the relevant chapter(s) in the textbook, J. M. Bumsted, The Peoples of Canada: A Pre-Confederation History. During the term, you will be required to attend the scheduled discussion sessions and provide a one to two-page commentary for each of these seminars. You must also submit an annotated bibliography in preparation for the research paper and then write the research paper. In addition, there will be a midterm exam in February and the final exam scheduled during exam period in December (see details below).

1) Discussion Groups (15% of final grade):

Since discussion groups only work when students are well-acquainted with the assigned readings, one requirement of the seminars will be to provide a short (minimum one printed page) commentary containing the following points:

- Briefly summarize the articles and primary sources (what do they tell us about the topic?)
- Identify the main arguments and themes of the readings
- Write a short paragraph in which you outline the most important question(s) that the readings raised for you.

This will help you to focus your thoughts for the discussions and will train you to identify the main arguments of the texts you read. These short commentaries will not be graded individually, but will assist in determining the quality of your participation (of course, only in addition to your oral contributions during the discussions – see below).

The discussion groups count for 15% of the final grade in the course. You will receive 30% of the discussion grade by being physically present, 30% will be based on the discussion paper (full marks for all papers that fully cover the above points), and 40% will be based on the quality and frequency of your oral participation (with an emphasis on contributions that demonstrate critical engagement with the material).

*Students who miss more than three seminars will forfeit their entire seminar mark****

To ensure discussions are effective, students must read and think about the assigned material in advance of coming to class and bring the short paper – see instructions above. In class, students will not only discuss the content of the material but more importantly will discuss their interpretations of the assigned material, the authors' thesis and main points, and, where applicable, the sources and evidence the authors used to make their arguments.

2) Primary Source Analysis & Annotated Bibliography (10% of final grade):

This assignment is a preparatory step towards the research paper. Choose a written primary source from your textbook as the basis for your essay topic. There are additional primary sources on the website attached to the textbook at: http://www.oupcanada.com/higher_education/companion/history/9780199014910.html

Username: oup268

Password: DY4@fV (additional information available on D2L).

In the first paragraph of this assignment, identify the primary source and briefly summarize its content before answering the following questions about it:

- What exactly does this source tell you about the topic covered?
- When was it written and by whom? For what purpose did the author write the text?
- Does the text give you a balanced picture of the topic in question, or do you detect any biases on the part of the author?

Once you have responded to the questions above, explain in what context you are going to use the primary source – what are your intentions for your later research paper? In other words, what research question will guide your proposed paper? Keep in mind that the focus needs to be quite narrow for a paper of 1,500-2,000 words.

The third part of this assignment is to provide a list of a minimum of four academic and recent secondary sources (books or articles written by historians) accessible through the library with which you plan to write your research paper. As a rule of thumb, aim for sources that are footnoted and at least 15 pages in length (shorter works will not provide the necessary details you need to support your own argument in the later paper). Avoid the use of online sources since most of them are not peer reviewed (i.e. not academic) and are likely too short. Please list the minimum of four secondary sources you found in a bibliography using the History Department Style Guide and add a sentence or two for each source to explain how these will help answer your research question.

I will provide more detailed instructions in a lecture dedicated to library research.

The Annotated Bibliography is due at the beginning of class on January 30, 2018.

3) Midterm Exam (15% of final grade):

The midterm exam will focus on material from lectures, the textbook, and discussion topics covered to that point in the course. It will consist of a combination of multiple choice, short essay, and longer essay questions. The exam will take place in our regular classroom during class time on Tuesday February 27, 2018.

4) Research Essay (30% of final grade):

This essay requires a minimum of four academic secondary and one primary source - see instructions for the Research Question and Annotated Bibliography assignment above and the additional information on D2L. This essay will be about 1,500-2,000 words in length and will require the use of the History Department Style Guide (see required readings).

Qualities of a Good Essay:

- Critical analysis. Original and independent thought. What do you think about the material you have found? Why did you make the argument that you did? Which sources are more convincing and why? How are your sources biased? A well-balanced essay will include information that may disagree with your thesis as long as you explain why you are more convinced by one source than by another.
- Clear argument and organization. State your thesis in the introduction and develop it in a well-organized paper. The thesis statement is an answer to the research question. Based on the research you have done, take a point of view and defend it. The information you present should be logically organized and support your thesis statement. Beginning each paragraph with a topic sentence that is connected to the argument helps to guide the reader.
- Strong evidence. Is the paper based on adequate evidence from relevant primary and secondary sources? Is the evidence sufficient to convincingly support the thesis? Is the evidence critically examined? How well does your paper integrate and engage with the primary and secondary sources?
- Footnotes and bibliography. All evidence that is not common knowledge should be referenced using correct footnote style. Use footnotes when you are quoting another person and even when you are paraphrasing another person's ideas or findings in your own words. The History Department Style Guide explains what format you should use for footnotes and bibliography.

- Good writing style. The essay should be well written, have no spelling errors, and be grammatically correct. It should also be interesting to read. Avoid long block quotes (and frequently quoting secondary sources) – it is better to summarize and put information in your own words. Writing several drafts and reading your work aloud both help improve the quality of your writing.

There will be a check-list of requirements on D2L that you should attach to the hard copy of your research paper when you hand it in and a more detailed guide on how to write a research paper. There will also be a lecture on the topic on October 26.

The Research Paper is due on Tuesday March 13, 2018 at the beginning of class.

5) Final Exam (30% of final grade):

The final exam will not be a simple matter of regurgitating names and dates, but you will be asked to identify the contexts of the major themes covered in the lectures and discussion groups. Therefore, the most effective way to prepare for the exam is to attend all discussion groups and lectures as well as to read the assigned chapters in the textbook for each class. More details will follow on the last seminar day in April.

The Final Exam will take place during the examination period from April 16-24, 2018. Since instructors do not have any influence on the exam date and time, please do not make any travel arrangements for your winter break before the final exam schedule is published.

Final Mark break-down:

☞ primary source analysis & bibliography	10 %
☞ discussion groups	15 %
☞ midterm exam	15 %
☞ research paper (1,500-2,000 words)	30 %
☞ final exam	30 %

Due dates: Assignments must be handed to the instructor in class on the due date – it is due at the beginning of class (not after class)

Marks will be deducted at the rate of 5% per day for late assignments. If your assignment is late because of illness or family affliction, please submit a note from a health practitioner and no penalty will be assigned for the period of time the student was affected by those personal or health conditions.

No assignments will be accepted after the final class in April without prior permission from the instructor.

Note: If you find you are unable to write a test or complete an assignment, please come and see me prior to the due dates or e-mail me. It is your responsibility to inform me of any difficulties completing course components.

Evaluation: All essays will be marked for grammar, clarity of writing, organization, content, form, and critical analysis.

Structure: Please follow the instructions for your assignments. All written work must be double-spaced, with a margin of at least one inch on both sides of the text. Preface essays with a cover page. Bibliographies must be placed on a separate page at the end of an essay.

Footnote/Bibliography format: You must use Chicago Style for Humanities – please refer to the History Style Guide and other instruction guides on D2L for more specific details.
