5. Basis of Student Assessment (Weighting)

☞ Course Description:

In this course, we will trace European history from the end of the French Revolution through the Napoleonic Wars to the present. Among the major themes are the attempts by the dominant powers to restore many aspects of the European pre-revolutionary political landscape at the Congress of Vienna, though they were ultimately unable to stop the appeals of liberal nationalism. The ideas of nation states (and the social effects of the Industrial Revolution) started to destabilize the continental structures, which is most evident in the unification of Germany and the weakening of the multi-ethnic Ottoman and Habsburg Empires. Great power rivalry increased in the scramble for colonies as part of the imperialist expansion overseas. In the 20th century, the two world wars did not only create unprecedented destruction and suffering for soldiers and civilians alike, but also diminished the influence of European powers in the world as the division of the continent during the Cold War and decolonization of remaining overseas empires demonstrated. The revolutions of 1989 re-united the continent and opened the possibilities for the expansion of the European Union and NATO (albeit against Russian national interests as especially the crisis in Eastern Ukraine demonstrates), while the post-Communist order facilitated the re-emergence of ethnic tensions in the Balkans and parts of Eastern Europe.

☞ Course Requirements:

To pass the course, you are expected to submit short papers and attend the in-class discussions every Thursday. You must complete the “InQuizitive” online quizzes and the midterm exam. In addition, submitting the annotated bibliography and the research paper (as hard copies), and writing the final exams would complete the requirements. If, for whatever reasons (i.e. personal or health), you are unable to meet any of these requirements, please come and talk to me or e-mail me (ideally) before the deadline or exam so that we can find a solution. Late penalties for assignments are 5% per day, so please start early.

Please be aware that the instructors have no influence over the scheduling of the final exam during the examination period (April 16-24, 2018). Therefore, you should not make any travel plans or work arrangements until the final examination timetable has been posted.

A) Online Quizzes:

The “InQuizitive” quizzes will be facilitated through the Norton online platform (<https://digital.wwnorton.com/westciv4brv2>). The dates and readings for these quizzes are listed in the course outline and in the online calendar which you can access using your course access key and the Student Set ID: 45867.

With the “Student Access Code” bundled with your textbook, you need to sign into the online platform to self-register for access to the e-version of the book and the online components (i.e. the online quizzes). To receive full points for this component you need to complete at least 10 out of the 11 quizzes. More details on how to navigate the online portion will be provided on the first day of classes.

B) Discussion Groups:

Since discussion groups only work when students are well-acquainted with the assigned readings, one requirement of the seminars will be to provide a short (minimum one page) commentary containing the following points:

- Briefly summarize the sources
- Identify the main themes of the sources (what do they tell you about the issues?)
- Write a short paragraph in which you outline the most important question(s) that the reading(s) raised for you.
- For additional instructions and questions for the primary sources, please see the notes for each discussion topic in the schedule below.

This short paper will help you to focus your thoughts for the discussions and will train you to identify the main arguments (and biases) of the texts you read. These short commentaries will not be graded individually, but will assist in determining the quality of your participation (of course, only in addition to the oral participation during the discussions – see below).

The discussion groups count for 15% of the final grade in the course. You will receive 30% of the discussion grade by being physically present, 30% will be based on the discussion paper (full marks for all papers that fully cover the above points), and 40% will be based on the quality and frequency of your oral participation (with an emphasis on contributions that demonstrate critical engagement with the material).

*Students who miss more than three seminars will forfeit their entire seminar mark****

To ensure discussions are effective, students must read and think about the assigned material in advance of coming to class and bring the short paper – see instructions above. In class, students will not only discuss the content of the material but more importantly will discuss their interpretations of the assigned material, the authors’ thesis and main points, and, where applicable, the sources and evidence the authors used to make their arguments.

C) Paper Proposal and Annotated Bibliography:

To choose a topic for your later research paper, use one of the primary documents from your textbook starting with “Competing Viewpoints: The Factory System, Science, and Morality” in Chapter 19 on page 510 as the earliest document (see the table of contents on pages XVIII-XIX in Joshua Cole and Carol Symes, Western Civilizations, vol. 2. Brief 4th Ed., New York and London: W.W. Norton & Company, 2017.

You will develop a research question (or a hypothesis) that you want answered and find appropriate historical studies in the library to provide sufficient evidence. In addition to the primary document, you need to find five secondary sources. For secondary sources, please use only books and articles from academic journals – no websites, because those generally provide only very short summaries and are not usually peer reviewed. As an indicator of academic sources, please use only material that is footnoted (i.e. where the sources of the information are provided). In the case of journal articles and book chapters, please use contributions that are at least 15 pages long (avoid popular journals like History Today and History Teacher). This paper will likely be about 1 page in length for the proposal part (explain what the primary source says about the topic and what you are planning to do) and about 1-2 pages for the annotated bibliography (use the History Department Style Guide to list the sources you found and provide a couple of sentences for each book or article to explain how these will help you to address your research question). More details will follow in class before the paper is due.

Paper Proposal:

- Provide some background information about the larger topic (what is the paper about?).
- State your research question or hypothesis.
- Show how you plan to focus your question on a specific aspect of this topic.
- Explain what your primary source can tell you about your topic.
- Briefly summarize the content of the primary source.

Annotated Bibliography:

- One primary document from the Cole / Symes textbook (cite it properly using the style guide)
- At least five secondary sources (books or articles written by historians):
 - Articles from academic journals (minimum 15 pages)
 - Books published by a university press
 - Articles and books should have footnotes and be published after 1980

Under each source listed in your bibliography, explain in one or two sentences why the source is relevant for your topic.

The paper is due at the beginning of class on Wednesday February 7, 2018.

D) Midterm Exam:

The midterm exam will focus on textbook readings, lectures, and discussions covered up to that point in the course (i.e. before Reading Break). It will consist of multiple choice questions, short and longer essay responses. More details will be provided in class before the exam. Midterm will take place in the regular classroom during class time on Wednesday February 21, 2018.

E) Research Essay:

The research essay will be about 1,500-2,000 words in length, written on a topic corresponding to one of the documents from your textbook starting with the primary source on page 510 as the earliest document. See the instructions for the Primary Source Analysis and Annotated Bibliography assignment for more details on minimum requirements (i.e. one primary source from the textbook and at least five academic and recent secondary sources). For secondary sources, please use only books or articles from academic journals – no internet sites, because those generally provide only very short summaries and are not usually peer reviewed.

This essay will have a thesis statement at the end of the first paragraph which will clearly state your argument in one sentence. This should be followed by an analytical discussion of the problem that is raised in the primary document, and a short conclusion in which you summarize your findings. You will use the secondary sources to support your argument, which should clearly correspond to your thesis statement and be arranged in a logical progression.

The academic standards of the history department as outlined in the Department Style Guide (copy on D2L) will apply – i.e. use footnotes. Please provide a separate cover page with your name and student number, the name and number of the course, the name of the instructor, and the title of the essay. The bibliography must be on a separate page at the end of the essay. Since some of the topics might be more popular than others, make sure that you start early so that you will be able to get the necessary readings for your essay.

Papers without proper footnotes will be returned to students – late penalties will apply

Essay is due at the beginning of class on Wednesday March 28, 2018.

F) Final Exam:

On the final exam you will be asked to identify the contexts of the major themes covered in the lectures and discussions throughout the entire term. Therefore, the most effective way to prepare for the exam is to participate in all online discussion and attend the lectures. Apart from a short multiple-choice section on textbook and lecture content, this will be mainly an essay exam which will be written on campus during the examination period.

The final exam will take place during the examination period, April 16-24, 2018.

Each week you will attend a two-hour lecture and a one-hour seminar. Prepare for class by reading the assigned readings beforehand. Each chapter of the textbook opens with story lines, a chronology, and core objectives. Lectures will add material and ideas beyond what the book covers. Pay attention to questions and summaries throughout the chapter as they may be used to form short answer and essay questions for the examinations. Seminar readings are taken from the assigned texts plus online sites; except for the primary sources from the Cole & Symes textbook, all of the readings are linked on D2L (see details below).

Grade break-down for the course:

☞ Online "InQuizitive" quizzes	10 %
☞ Paper proposal and annotated bibliography	10 %
☞ Midterm Exam	15 %
☞ Discussion groups and small assignments	15 %
☞ Research paper (1,500-2,000 words)	25 %
☞ Final exam (during exam period in April)	25 %
