WHAT DO I THINK? Questionnaire on the Meaning of Life

	Agree	Disagree
1. When someone asks "What is the meaning of life?" I have no idea what they are asking.
2. The search for the meaning of life is a natural human quest, but it is like searching for the fountain of youth. In both cases, the object of the search will never be found.
3. Everything that happens in my life was meant to happen to fulfill some larger purpose. The most important goal in life is to discover what that purpose is.
4. If I can say at the end of my life, "I've had my ups and downs, my moments of happiness and moments of sadness, but, overall, life is good," then I have found "the meaning of life."
5. People are born, they sustain themselves for 80 years by eating, working, and sleeping, and then they die. That is all that can be said about the meaning of life.
6. People may feel as though they have found the meaning of life, but it is possible they are mistaken about this feeling, because human existence has an objective purpose that is independent of human opinions about it.
7. There is no single answer to the question of the meaning of life that applies to everyone, because each individual has to seek his or her own personal meaning.
8. If people don't obtain what they want in life, they will be frustrated. However, if they do get what they want, they either will be bored or will develop new desires and, hence, new occasions for frustration. It seems clear that in the final analysis, frustration or boredom and meaningless suffering is people's lot in life.
9. Unless they are completely numb to their own existence, most people experience a vague emptiness and yearning throughout their life, because they are trying to fill that void with that which is transitory and finite when only an eternal and infinite meaning will satisfy them.
10. It is incorrect to speak of "seeking the meaning of life," because this statement implies that it is out there, like an Easter egg, waiting for people to find it. Instead, each person should speak of "creating meaning for my life." People are like artists facing blank canvases, considering what work of personal creation they will find satisfying.
