Hi, I'm Julian Gunn. I have been a visitor in both Lkwungen and WSÁNEĆ territories for 28 years, but I was born in Prince George, in Lheidli T'enneh territory. My ancestors are from England, Scotland, and Wales. I have a master's degree in English literature from UVic. This is my favorite class to teach, and I feel lucky to be able to spend this time with you.

Below, you'll find the learning outcomes Camosun College has established for the course.

2. Intended Learning Outcomes

In reading literature, students will be encouraged to make connections, consider meaning, make and support inferences, and evaluate. At the end of the course students will be able to:

1. Analyze Indigenous literature from both the oral and written traditions.
2. Analyze Indigenous pre-contact literature in the genres of song, prayer, and storytelling by addressing their roles within Indigenous communities.
3. Analyze Indigenous literature in the post-contact period through the genres of poetry, fiction, non-fiction and drama.
4. Identify Indigenous literary forms, elements, and techniques.

In discussing literature, students will be given the opportunity to develop and communicate responses and interpretations using varied methods and resources. At the end of the course students will be able to:

1. Identify the continuing inter-relationship of Indigenous pre-contact literatures with the written tradition.
2. Examine Eurocentric notions of literal and figurative meaning in relation to Indigenous literature.
3. Use literary terms such as metaphor, irony, character, setting, and plot.
4. Describe the significance of differing literary interpretations from Native and non-Native perspectives.
5. Use vocabulary associated with analyzing fiction, poetry, drama, and non-fiction.
6. Analyze themes common to Indigenous literature.
7. Describe various literary theories that are relevant to the study of Indigenous literature (e.g. post-colonial theory, feminist theory, reader response theory, etc.).

In writing about literature, students will be able to explain, support, and illustrate points in essays. At the end of this course students will be able to:

1. Use a critical approach with appropriate language and terminology.
2. Clarify, articulate and support a position, while remaining open to, and acknowledging, other possible interpretations.
3. Evaluate specific literary techniques.

4. Employ close reading skills.
5. Use a scholarly essay form, including a thesis; topic sentences; argument and/or analysis; use of quotations; unified, coherent paragraphs and transitions; rhetorical strategies appropriate for purpose and audience; and effective introductions and conclusions.
6. Produce writing under exam or exam-like conditions.
7. Write clear, concise, effective prose, and know how to identify as well as correct common mechanical and grammatical errors.

In using information literacy skills, students will be able to:

1. Determine the nature and extent of the information needed.
2. Know what information resources are available, in different formats.
3. Use print and electronic resources effectively and efficiently.

Notes

Late Assignments. Here's the rule. If you ask for an extension at least 48 hours in advance, the answer is always yes. If you don't as 48 hours in advance, the late penalty is 5% per day, including weekends. Emergencies are an exception, of course.

Attendance. This is a highly participatory course. Class discussion is the foundation of our learning experience together. Assignments and exams will change depending on what we discuss in class. Repeated absences will make it difficult for you to pass the course. In the same spirit, please do not arrive late for class. It disrupts the learning experience of the other students.

Several assignments are in-class assignments, especially the peer feedback, and you'll need to be in the room to do them properly. These assignments cannot be made up outside of class, nor are there substitute assignments.

All that said, I know you have a life outside of the classroom, and responsibilities to community, work, and family. If you know that a scheduling conflict will arise, please discuss it with me in advance and make arrangements.

Plagiarism. The penalty for plagiarism, both intentional and unintentional, is a grade of zero on the assignment, and possible further consequences. Plagiarism includes the following: submitting part or all of an assignment written by someone else; copying and pasting one or more passages (even a few words) from another source without correct documentation; paraphrasing that too closely resembles the original in either form or content; and reusing an assignment from another course.

If you're ever not sure whether something is plagiarism or not, show me and I will tell you.
