Structure of the course

Every module in this course has five components. With the exception of the textbook all materials are organized on our D2L page:

1. Watch, listen or read the Big Ideas for this module (10-20 minutes)
2. Read the textbook (40-60 minutes);
 1. Read, watch or listen to additional course materials provided in the D2L module (45 minutes)
3. Complete an assignment/activity or discussion (60-120 minutes).
4. Complete a content quiz (20 minutes)

5. Basis of Student Assessment (Weighting)

Your assessment in this course consists of weekly quizzes, a midterm exam, a final exam, discussion and assignments. Here is a breakdown of your marks for the semester:

- Assignments/activities: 50 marks each x 3 = 150
- Discussions: 21.5 marks each x 7 = 150
- Weekly Quizzes: 20 marks each x 13 = 260
- Midterm Exam: 200 marks
- Final Exam: 240 marks

Total: 1000 marks

Activities/Assignments (15%)

Anthropologists know that the best way to understand something is to live it, which generally requires extensive fieldwork. This develops empathy, an insider's perspective, and a more complex understanding of whatever element of culture one is studying. The assignments for this course will get you applying your learning through a series of challenges. I think you are going to have a lot of fun with these challenges! Your assignments are due on Sunday at 11:30 pm.

Discussions (15%)

For the class discussions in this course I will be dividing you into groups of eight to ten students; you will be working with the same group of students for the whole semester. In these groups you will be discussing articles and working through questions that I post on the discussion forum. Discussions are time sensitive. Students must make their initial post by Thursday and have responded to at least two posts made by the other member of your group by Sunday at 11:30 pm.

Weekly Module Quizzes (26%)

The purpose of the weekly quizzes is to test your foundational knowledge. These quizzes will require you to recall, list and identify key concepts, facts and on occasion names and dates from the course content. They include multiple choice questions only and will be graded automatically. They will be based on the material from your textbook and the supplementary material from the module webpage. Each quiz will be open for one week, with the exception of quiz 1, which will be open for two weeks. You may take the quiz up to two times, but be warned that the questions are randomized so you may get different questions on the second attempt. The quizzes will be available from 7:00 am on Monday and close on Sunday at 11:30 pm.

Exams (44%)

There are two exams for this course, a midterm exam and a final exam. They are both take-home exams.

Midterm: worth 20% available for one week starting at 12:00am on Monday, October 26

Final exam: worth 24% available for one week starting at 12:00am on Monday, December 14

Once the exam opens, you will have one week to prepare your answers. The exams are open book which means that you may refer to the course material, including the textbook material, videos and podcast and the course readings as you prepare your answers. Students are prohibited from using materials or resources other than the class material. This means you may not consult additional articles, website, or materials from another class. I will be evaluating your answers based on your understanding and integration of the course materials so you must demonstrate this in your answers. The exam is to be completed independently, without discussion with other individuals within or outside of the class. In short, you may not consult with others in preparation for the exam.

With lots of advance warning and a week to complete exams there should be no reason why students cannot complete the exams at the scheduled times. If emergency circumstances arise please contact me and be ready to show pertinent documentation (like a doctor's note), do not assume that an accommodation can be made.

7. Recommended Materials to Assist Students to Succeed Throughout the Course – COVID 19 Edition

Be nice. Be honest. Don't cheat. Also, follow Camosun College's Student Conduct Policy.

Brandon Bayne (2020) from UNC – Chapel Hill kindly shared the following principles for teaching and learning during the current pandemic. Please take a moment to read through them.

Principles

1. Nobody signed up for this.
 - Not for the sickness, not for the social distancing, not for the sudden end of our collective lives together on campus
 - Not for an online class, not for teaching remotely, not for learning from home, not for mastering new technologies, not for varied access to learning materials
2. The humane option is the best option
 - We are going to prioritize supporting each other as humans
 - We are going to prioritize simple solutions that make sense for the most
 - We are going to prioritize sharing resources and communicating clearly
3. We cannot just do the same thing online.
 - Some assignments are no longer possible
 - Some expectations are no longer reasonable
 - Some objectives are no longer valuable
4. We will foster intellectual nourishment, social connection, and personal accommodation.
 - Accessible asynchronous content for diverse access, time zones, and contexts
 - Synchronous discussion to learn together and combat isolation
5. We will remain flexible and adjust to the situation
 - Nobody knows where this is going and what we'll need to adapt
 - Everybody needs support and understanding in this unprecedented moment

8. College Supports, Services and Policies
