This course is a combination of synchronous learning (online sessions in real time) and asynchronous learning (assigned work you do on your own = self-study). You must attend all weekly synchronous classes for your section (CANADA PT). You will be graded on your attendance, participation and preparedness for these sessions. Links to your recurring weekly sessions will be provided in D2L. Make a note in your calendar that you must be online and present for your synchronous sessions. 8% (1% will be deducted for each absence).

IMPORTANT NOTES

SELF-STUDY before and after the class: You are required to view the PPT videos and complete PDF review sheets on D2L. The detailed weekly schedule about what should be completed before and after each synchronous session will be posted. This will prepare you to put your new skills to use when we meet in real-time. You also need to do the textbook and workbook exercises. Please expect to spend 5-7 hours for self-study per week.

D2L: Learn to use D2L, the online teaching and learning platform used at Camosun. You can access student tutorials here. It is your responsibility to check D2L regularly for updates, assignments, how to prepare for the online synchronous sessions, materials, etc. Please set up D2L to send a notification via email each time something is posted or updated in the class D2L site.

Tech support: Chances are, I am not your best resource for questions on using your computer, webcam, microphone, headset and so on. You can access student tech support here: 250.370.3064 or its servicedesk@camosun.ca

Online translators: DO NOT USE IT, PLASE. I will know right away if you do since these programs will use vocabs, Chinese characters, sentence structures that we haven't even learned in the course. And most importantly, translations are almost always a little "off" or unnatural. If I detect the use of online translation in any work, you will receive zero.

Academic honesty: Along these same lines above, you will want to familiarize yourself with Camosun's Academic honesty policy \(here\). If any dishonest act is detected, you will receive 0% and the Academic Dishonesty Incident Report will be filed.
