COURSE GUIDELINES & EXPECTATIONS

There are a number of components to this course:

Lectures: There will usually be two hours of lecture per week. The whiteboard will be heavily utilized and digital images will augment the traditional lecture style.

Labs: There are ten labs in the course. Each lab contains exercises to familiarize students with environmental issues, government and non-profit web sites, and the tools of geographic analysis. Most lab exercises, due to their use of Internet information, will be taken home for completion. Labs will have assigned due dates and late submissions will not be accepted once marked labs have been handed back.

Plot Study: You will choose a place that is representative of the Greater Victoria region and will visit it frequently throughout the term to make observations, collect images, and learn about its ecosystem components. You'll also research the human history of your plot and the development protections or plans for it. At the end of term, you will create a multi-sensory presentation of your plot that will introduce your classmates to its unique characteristics.

Tests: There will be three theory tests this term, the first one on Thursday, October 13th and the second on Thursday, November 10th, and the final one during the College Exam Week. Each test will have a selection of short-answer, multiple-choice, and short essay-type questions. Attendance is mandatory; do not make Christmas travel plans until the exam schedule is released (no accommodations for travel will be made) and illness must be declared before the exam begins. There will also be a practical test on your ability to work with navigational coordinate systems on Thursday, September 29th.
