COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES / OBJECTIVES

Upon completion of this course, a student will be able to:

Use sociological frameworks to assess the contemporary demographic, economic, political, legal, health, social, and cultural statuses of Indigenous Peoples in Canada.

Describe how racism, patriarchy, and capitalism contribute to the marginal positions of Indigenous Peoples.

Apply a sociological perspective to the historical and contemporary relations between the Canadian state and Indigenous Peoples in order to understand the impacts of colonialism.

Identify the contemporary laws, policies and practices of the Canadian state that create, support and shape the social relationship between the Indigenous Peoples and Canadian society, especially in the areas of land claim settlements and Indigenous self-government.

Critically evaluate challenges facing Indigenous Peoples and communities resulting from their interaction with the majority culture.
