Course Description

This one semester course offers the student information and practical assistance relating to health maintenance and promotion. Health/wellness is viewed as an interaction between physical, emotional, social, mental, spiritual, occupational and environmental dimensions, with choices in one dimension affecting all of the others. (T)

Learning Outcomes

Upon successful completion of this course, the learner will be able to:

1. Demonstrate an awareness of all dimensions of health as they affect, and are affected by, lifestyle choices.
2. Identify and assess factors that influence health, based on a sound body of valid and current information.
3. Use an effective planning process to develop an action plan to change behaviour.
4. Demonstrate analytical and critical thinking through implementation of a health-related lifestyle change.

Course Content

In this course, you will be exposed to accurate, up-to-date information about topics and issues related to health. We will explore topics such as physical activity, nutrition, weight management, mind-body, stress management, substance use, sexually transmitted infections and birth control. Health/wellness is viewed as an interaction between physical, emotional, social, mental, spiritual, occupational and environmental dimensions, with choices in one dimension affecting all of the others. You will be encouraged to identify choices that contribute to health and those which do not. Guidelines and tools for changing behaviour will be discussed and you will have the opportunity to monitor, understand, and see how you can have an effect on the choices that influence your health. This course takes a practical, personal approach to health promotion.
