

School of Health & Human Services
International Pathway to Practical Nursing

Spring 2018

Course Name: Health Care in Canada

Course Number: PNUR 103

COURSE OUTLINE

Introduction:

This course introduces the learner to the Canadian health care system through the exploration of differences in approaches to health and wellness across cultures. It is designed to meet the needs of health care students who are new to Canada and bring knowledge of, and experiences with, the delivery of health care in other countries. Caring for patients within the context of our health care system may be quite different from the students own experience in their country of origin and provides the knowledge and skills to begin to meet the needs of Canadian patients safely and with confidence.
