CALENDAR DESCRIPTION

Students expand on their understanding of the clinical applications of sonography for the surveillance of pregnancy. Students review relationships of the maternal and fetal anatomy while learning to recognize the normal and abnormal sonographic appearances of second and third trimester pregnancies. Students learn to select appropriate scanning protocols based on patient history, physiologic data, laboratory values, and complementary imaging studies.

COURSE LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of this course a student will be able to:

- a) Explain the significance of gestational age, history, laboratory results, patient preparation, and body habitus on the approach to second and third trimester sonography and discuss the selection of protocols, transducers, and impact on resultant sonographic image quality.
- b) Explain how the normal and abnormal sonographic appearance of maternal and fetal anatomy alters depending on gestational age, physiological, hormonal, and pathological causes.
- c) Define and apply the components of a diagnostic examination to second and third trimester sonography.
- d) Discuss the significance of multiple gestations, congenital defects, catastrophic pathology, unexpected fetal death, and gender identification on parental bonding, selective abortions, and maternal welfare.
- e) Discuss the legal and ethical implications of gestational surveillance for student sonographers and graduates.
- f) Perform ultrasound examinations and collect measurements of all required maternal and fetal structures within the recommended Sonography Canada guidelines for scheduling and time allotments while scanning simulated patients, live subjects, or laboratory partners.

COURSE OBJECTIVES AND MAPPED PROFESSIONAL COMPETENCIES

(also known as “sub-outcomes” or “learning objectives”)

Expanded Learning Outcome(s)

c-1) define and apply the following key components of an ultrasound exam: professional conduct, interpret the request, plan the procedure, establish the patient relationship, execute the procedure and conclude the procedure in relation to second and third trimester sonography.

COURSE GUIDELINES & EXPECTATIONS

Asynchronous Materials

Except for Week 1, asynchronous materials should be accessed prior to the Monday lectures. This will give students opportunity to ask questions in class that may have arisen from the asynchronous materials.

Late Assignments/Assessments

Late assignments will not be accepted and the student will be assessed a zero (0%) for the late assignment. Should there be a significant extenuating circumstance, the student MUST contact the instructor prior to the assignment due date, with as much notice as possible.

Professionalism & Participation

A key component of being a successful student and healthcare worker is demonstrating professional behaviours and actively engaging in classroom, laboratory and clinical activities. Examples of these behaviours are: asking questions in class, actively participating in group or lab activities, participating in class discussions, responding to emails in a timely fashion, respecting laboratory dress code, speaking and engaging respectfully with classmates and instructors, and using effective communication skills. Every student starts with a full 5% in this category and marks will only be lost after an assessment of overall engagement and participation is assessed at the end of term by your instructors.

Students enrolled in Allied Health & Technologies Programs must achieve a minimum of 65% or a “COM” in each of their courses in order to use their course as a pre-requisite and progress in their program.

Students enrolled in Allied Health & Technologies Programs must participate in learning activities that include intimate and direct personal contact with their classmates during supervised practice. Students are training to perform the duties of a healthcare professional. These duties usually require constant, close physical contact with patients and clients. Students may be required to simulate and perform these activities on one another during this course. Students may also be required to use special hygiene practices and protective gear to protect themselves from the transmission of communicable diseases (like COVID-19). Risks associated with learning and performing the physical duties of a healthcare profession cannot be entirely eliminated by any amount of caution or protection. Students who refuse, or are incapable of participating and performing these activities due to personal or medical limitations, may only continue to participate in their course work when supported by officially registered accommodations or temporary medical advisory.

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITY

Enrolment at Camosun assumes that the student will become a responsible member of the College community. As such, each student will display a positive work ethic, assist in the preservation of College property, and assume responsibility for their education by researching academic requirements and policies; demonstrating courtesy and respect toward others; and respecting expectations concerning attendance, assignments, deadlines, and appointments.
