CALENDAR DESCRIPTION

Students enhance their understanding of the clinical applications of sonography as a diagnostic investigation tool. Students analyze anatomic relationships of the musculoskeletal system while learning to recognize the normal and abnormal sonographic appearances of the tendons, ligaments, muscle, nerves, bursa, and joint capsules of the elbow, foot, ankle, hand, wrist, knee, and shoulder. Students learn to select appropriate scanning protocols based on patient history, physiologic data, laboratory values, and complementary imaging studies. Students will apply research methodology to examining the expanded use of sonography for musculoskeletal imaging.

- b) explain how the normal and abnormal sonographic appearance of tendons, ligaments, muscle, nerves, bursa, and joint capsules of the elbow, foot, ankle, hand, wrist, knee, and shoulder are differentiated across gender, age, and habitus.
- c) define and apply the components of a diagnostic examination to musculoskeletal sonography.
- d) discuss the implications of the expansion of musculoskeletal sonography on future practice and determine if an evidence-based approach to clinical practice supports this.
- e) include visual location references, all images, and measurements necessary to create a summary of the superficial structure examination within the recommended Sonography Canada guidelines for scheduling and time allotments while scanning simulated patients, live subjects, or laboratory partners.
